Firm Confesses

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ashland Oil Inc. and its chairman, Orin E. Atkins, have voluntarily acknowledged illegal corporate contributions to President Nixon's re-election campaign, the office of the special Watergate prosecutor announced Friday.

"We are in no position to make any determination concerning the likely disposition of the matter until the details of the contribution and surrounding circumstances have been fully investigated," Prosecutor Archibald Cox said.

The amount of the contribution was $100,000, Cox said.

Two weeks ago, American Airlines confessed that it donated $55,000 in company funds to the Nixon re-election campaign. At the time, Cox commended the move and indicated that jail terms and fines may await other corporate officers who failed to admit such gifts.

Getty—Dancer

ROME (AP) — Police widened their search Friday for a go-go dancer they believe could shed some light on the disappearance of J. Paul Getty III.

The girl, identified as Daniele Devret, 23, is the last known person to have seen the 16-year-old Getty.

Getty, known by his friends as the "Golden Hippie," is the grandson of the American oil billionaire. Young Getty dropped from sight here 11 days ago, and his mother believes he was kidnapped.

Police sources said Italian authorities asked Interpol, the international police organization, to help trace the go-go dancer.

The Italian police said they were not convinced that Getty was kidnapped. They said they found striking similarities between his disappearance and a kidnap hoax in the movie "Travels With My Aunt," which has been showing in Rome.

In the film an elderly woman in London receives in the mail a finger she is led to believe had been cut off her former Italian lover. She is asked to ransom him.

Young Getty's mother told police that a mysterious telephone caller told her he had kidnapped her son and threatened to cut off one of the youngster's fingers and send it to her as proof if she doubted it was a kidnapping.

Cambodia Conflict

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — Communist-led insurgents attacked government troops in at least seven fiercely contested sectors Friday around Phnom Penh, the Cambodian high command and field reports disclosed.

Heavy U.S. bombing was reported in two of the contested areas.

In the most significant fighting, 10 miles south of Phnom Penh on Highway 3, government troops failed for the 10th day to relieve a besieged paratroop battalion despite repeated U.S. bombing of insurgent positions.

Three paratroopers slipped through insurgent lines surrounding the outpost and reported the garrison was running low on food, water and ammunition. One of the men said 10 paratroopers were killed and 40 injured in the last 10 days.

U.S. F4 Phantoms and A7 Corsair planes made repeated raids, flying as low as 2,000 feet.

Hijacking

DUBAI (AP) — Hijackers commandeered a Japan Air Lines jumbo jet from Amsterdam to this Persian Gulf sheikdom Friday night. A corpse and a wounded crew member were carried off the aircraft after it landed.

JAL officials in Tokyo said the wounded crew member, the chief purser, was taken to a hospital. He told the airline's London office by telephone that an explosion early in the 3,000-mile flight across Europe and the Middle East killed a woman passenger and injured him.

The purser, 37-year-old Yoshihiro Miyashita, said the blast went off about 10 minutes after the plane left Amsterdam, when he and another purser were trying to explain to a non-Japanese couple how to use their reclining seats. The woman was killed immediately, he said.

Right after the explosion the purser was approached by a hijacker brandishing a pistol and a hand grenade. Miyashita said the man shouted: "If you move, I'll kill you!" in English.

The purser said there were three or four hijackers aboard the plane, which carried the 123 passengers and crew of 22.

Airport sources in Dubai said later both the purser and the dead woman apparently had been shot.

Dubai police said the victims were taken off the Boeing 747 at the request of the hijackers, reported to include at least two Japanese Red Army terrorists and a Palestinian guerrilla commander.

The hijackers reportedly demanded the release of Kozo Okamoto, a Red Army fanatic now serving a life sentence in Israel for his part in last year's Lod Airport massacre.

The terrorists first tried to force a landing in Beirut, but were refused permission. Then they flew to Basra in southeast Iraq, but the runways were too short for the jumbo jet. At Bahrain, in the Persian Gulf, they were again refused permission to land.

Finally at 8:10 a.m. Saturday — 7:10 p.m. EDT Friday — the big jetliner touched down at the Dubai airport, authorities reported.

Armed police ringed the plane and the passengers remained aboard. Officials said the hijackers allowed Sheikh Mohamed bin Rashid, minister of the United Arab Emirates defense force, on board the jetliner to negotiate.

Food, Gas Major Offenders Report June Prices Up

WASHINGTON — A smiling President Nixon leaves nearby Bethesda Naval Hospital Friday after licking viral pneumonia. (UPI Telephoto)

SANTIAGO, CHILE — Riot policeman wearing gas mask approaches leftist demonstrator with club during protest blockade of major industrial avenue Thursday two miles from the Presidential Palace. The demonstration by the revolutionary left movement (MIR) was organized to dramatize its refusal to return factories occupied by workers since last month's aborted military revolt. (UPI Telephoto)

WASHINGTON (AP) — Retail prices climbed sharply in June for the fifth consecutive month, rising seven-tenths of one per cent before the price freeze, the government reported Friday.

Food, gasoline, fuel oil and household services accounted for about three-fourths of the total increase.

The rise in the Consumer Price Index was based on prices gathered by the government before President Nixon clamped the freeze June 13, meaning that the effect of the freeze will not show up until next month.

But any slowing of the inflationary spiral was expected to be temporary as the administration's new Phase 4 program unveiled Wednesday brought predictions of even higher prices in the months ahead.

The Labor Department said grocery store prices rose 1.7 per cent last month and were 15.7 per cent higher than a year ago. Gasoline and motor oil, in short supply, jumped 2.6 per cent in June and were 11.5 per cent higher over the year.

With the continuing inflation, the purchasing power of workers declined for the sixth time in the past eight months.

The after-tax take-home pay of a rank-and-file worker with three dependents averaged $127.18 in June, an increase of $2.07 from May. But the government said that after adjustment for higher prices, his purchasing power declined one-tenth of one per cent in June.

"What is clear," said chairman Herbert Stein of the Council of Economic Advisers, "is that prices were rising rapidly right up to the beginning of the freeze although not so rapidly as in February and March."

He said price increases continued to be fed by food even though the June increase in food prices was the smallest of the year.

AFL-CIO President George Meany commented, "Housewives, consumers and workers didn't need more official statistics of bad news to know that their standard of living has once again been devaluated."

Food alone rose nine-tenths of one per cent, adjusted to discount seasonal influences. This was less than the 1.1 per cent rise in May, but still large by normal standards.

Talk Of Resignation Labeled 'Poppcock'

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon, dismissing any talk of his resigning as "just plain poppcock," vowed Friday he "will work right up to the hilt" even if it endangers his health.

Returning to the White House from the Bethesda Naval Medical Center where he fought off viral pneumonia, Nixon told several hundred aides and employees who gathered in the Rose Garden to welcome him: "Let others wallow in Watergate, we are going to do our job."

Looking fit and rested following his week-long hospital stay, Nixon acknowledged his doctors want him to "slow down a little now and take some time off and relax a little more."

"No one in this great office at this time in the world's history can slow down, he went on. "This office requires a president who will work right up to the hilt all the time."

Declaring that many people believe a fast pace might endanger his health, Nixon said, "the health of a man is not nearly as important as the health of the nation and the health of the world."

The chief executive said some well-intentioned people suspect that illness can result from the burdens of the presidency and "the rather rough assault that any man in this office gets from time to time."

Such people, he said, have wondered if his own illness might mean he would "get so tired that I would consider either slowing down or even, some suggested, resigning."

Promising he will neither slow down nor resign before his elected term ends, Nixon said of any talk to the contrary, "That is just plain poppcock."

His audience applauded.

Without referring directly to Watergate, Nixon said Americans should "put all of the events that we read about, the things we see on television in perspective." He said they should think about what he termed "the great decisions" that will be made in his office that "are going to determine whether we have peace in this world for years to come."

Senate Approves Bill To Limit War Powers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Friday passed a historic bill limiting the President's power to commit American troops to war without congressional approval.

Though similar legislation passed the House earlier this week, its ultimate fate is uncertain, because a veto by President Nixon is considered certain.

The 71-18 margin by which the Senate approved the measure was 11 more than the two-thirds that will be needed to override a veto. However, the House fell 32 votes short of two-thirds.

Earlier, with an eye toward the expected veto, the Senate refused by a 53-34 vote to broaden coverage of the measure. The amendment by Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton, D-Mo., would include civilian advisers, Central Intelligence Agency personnel and foreign "proxy" troops as well as U.S. armed forces.

Amendments also were defeated that would extend the measure to cover peacetime deployment of troops abroad and limit the circumstances under which a president could commit troops.

The bill finally passed by the Senate sets a 30-day limit on a president's power to commit troops, giving only Congress the power to extend the period. The bill passed 244 to 170 by the House Wednesday would set a 120-day limit instead.

Another major difference is the spelling out in the Senate bill of circumstances under which a president could commit troops for a limited period.

The Senate's war powers bill is identical to one it passed last year 68 to 16 but which died in conference.

The House last year approved a less-sweeping bill requiring presidential consultation with Congress but which did not prevent the president from deploying troops.

Strachan Contradicts Magruder Testimony

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gordon Strachan testified Friday that more than two months before the Watergate break-in, he gave his boss—H.R. Haldeman—a three-line report of "a sophisticated political intelligence-gathering system with a budget of $300,000."

But he said even though he was the liaison between President Nixon's re-election committee and the White House chief of staff on political matters, John W. Dean III was the White House contact on political intelligence.

"Neither Mr. Haldeman nor Mr. Dean advised me of the series of meetings with Mr. Mitchell, Dean, Liddy and Magruder," Strachan told the Senate Watergate committee in prepared testimony.

It was at meetings in January, February and March, involving those men, where apparently the Democratic party headquarters break-in plan was hatched.

Jeb Stuart Magruder, deputy in the campaign to former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, had testified that after the last meeting, March 30, "I called Mr. Strachan and indicated to him that the project had been approved ... I discussed it in detail."

But Strachan said "had anyone ever heard the details of prostitution, goon squads, kidnapping and wiretaps, he would be unlikely to forget it."

"I certainly would not forget it. Mr. Magruder never gave me that information..." he said.

Strachan, a lanky young man with a high pitched voice, was able only to read a 15-page prepared statement before the committee adjourned until Monday, when he will return.

White House Tapes

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has made his decision on the release of White House tape recordings and will send that decision to the Senate Watergate committee Monday, a Nixon spokesman said Friday.

But Deputy Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren gave no hint about what the decision might be. Published reports said, however, the decision would be to deny the committee's request for the tapes which could become the ultimate witness at the Senate Watergate hearings.

It was disclosed earlier this week at the hearings that since 1971 Nixon had been recording conversations and telephone calls at the White House and the Executive Office Building. The Watergate committee feels the tapes could go a long way toward clearing up glaring discrepancies in the testimony of several witnesses and define, at least to some degree, the extent of any knowledge Nixon may have had of the Watergate affair and cover-up.

Nixon already has refused to turn over White House records over to the committee, citing the twin doctrines of separation of powers and executive privilege.

Deception On Bombings

The American public was grossly deceived about bombing raids in Cambodia as long as four years ago. The Pentagon has admitted this. It was forced into the admission by a former Air Force major's congressional testimony that he took part in directing such raids and falsifying records to make it appear that they actually occurred in South Vietnam.

The author of this testimony, Hal M. Knight, has provided the Senate Foreign Relations Committee with a full account of an elaborate system whereby the military conspired to deceive the public. Certainly not the enemy; Communist forces were keenly aware that they were the object of the B-52s' attentions. No, it was the American people who must be kept in the dark as to whom their armed forces were attacking.

They must be kept in the dark, Knight testifies to being told by his superiors, for "political reasons." One officer, he says, specifically observed that the Senate Foreign Relations Committee might take offense were it to become known that such an unauthorized escalation of the war was under way.

Captured Canadians

The Viet Cong's 17-day detention of two Canadian members of the international cease-fire commission is another pointed reminder of the inadequacies of the peace-keeping arrangements.

The Canadian officers should never have been captured in the first place, still less held for so long. For the first 10 days the Viet Cong blatantly denied any knowledge of the incident. Finally they tried to excuse it by saying they suspected the Canadians of being "sham" officials. Apparently they sought to use the two officers for bargaining purposes to improve their own military position in the area.

The details in Knight's account leave no doubt as to the intentions of the Pentagon. Not only were falsified records of bombing attacks dispatched to headquarters in Saigon, but Knight was required to destroy orders for the actual strikes after these had been carried out. This unsavory business involved his burning the orders in a barrel outside his office—by daylight, he has testified, so that no incriminating scrap of paper would escape notice.

Some attempt has been made to discredit this young man's testimony—notably by Sen. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina, who elicited from him the admission that because he was twice passed over for promotion he was forced to resign his commission in 1972. The clincher, though, is that the substance of Knight's accusations has been admitted by Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger. His version of it is that the records of bombing raids in Cambodia were destroyed "because of the sensitive operational and diplomatic situation."

Did that situation warrant deceiving the American public about U.S. military operations in a country supposedly not involved in the war? We think not.

Understandably enough the Canadians see the incident as confirming the rightness of their decision to withdraw from the ceasefire commission at the end of this month. But the fortitude of these two particular officers makes one realize how much the Canadians will be missed.

On the credit side there has been a significant drop in the number of cease-fire violations in recent weeks. But if the cease-fire is to become effective, the Viet Cong must give better evidence than this of their good faith and of their ability to control their local commanders.

Blair Emerges Heavy-Weight Political Contender

By MICHAEL ROBINSON
Associated Press Writer
SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — A noteworthy development of the General Assembly session that ended this month was House Speaker W. Robert Blair's arrival as a heavy-weight contender in the statewide political picture. Blair, the most powerful Republican in the legislature, mounted a drive at the start of the session to shed the mercenary and somewhat eccentric image he had developed over the last two years. He emerged as the principal spokesman for his party in the battles over transportation money that reverberated in the House and Senate.

As the session developed, it became evident that Democratic Gov. Daniel Walker would preside over one political sphere of influence in Springfield, particularly when he could draw support from followers of Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley.

But Blair quickly consolidated an alliance with Senate president William C. Harris of Pontiac, and, thus, the Republican majorities in both legislative houses were able to work in concert.

Furthermore, when Blair's old Republican enemies, led by Rep. Henry J. Hyde, R-Park Ridge, tried to wrest away his House majority, the speaker always was able to round up enough Democratic votes to accomplish his aims.

In doing so, Blair demonstrated what to some was a remarkable ability to get along with Daley, although in retrospect that shouldn't be so surprising.

Blair long ago showed a flair for cooperating closely with House Democratic Leader Clyde Chouteau of Anna. In fact, the Hyde Republicans regularly berate Blair for too much political back scratching with Chouteau and not enough partisanship.

But the packages of legislation produced by the Blair-Chouteau working relationship have represented the major changes and initiatives in state government over the past 2½ years, with the Senate taking something of a back seat in fashioning major measures since the retirement of long-time Republican leader W. Russell Arrington.

Among the products of the Blair-Chouteau bargaining were the major transportation and antipollution bond issues of the last General Assembly and several key transportation bills this spring.

Where next for Blair? The 42-year-old real estate man and former Swift & Co. attorney makes it no secret that his eye is on the governor's chair.

But major sections of the Illinois Republican Party already have indicated they would prefer to nominate Atty. Gen. William J. Scott for the governorship. And Scott definitely is interested in running, although his public statements are noncommittal.

Three days before the close of the session Blair and Scott had a run-in that could presage more factional fighting among Illinois Republicans.

Scott had sought for two years to win legislative approval of his plan to establish statewide grand juries to probe crimes affecting more than one county.

The night of June 30, the Senate-passed measure failed in the House for lack of one vote. Among those abstaining was Blair.

In a strongly worded statement afterward, Scott declared that Blair had "sold his soul" to the so-called West Side bloc to become reelected speaker against Hyde. He hinted vaguely that he would battle Blair in some future election but left it unclear exactly when.

Blair explained his action by recommending that the party nominate Scott to run for the U.S. Senate against incumbent Democrat Adlai E. Stevenson III. However, he said, if this happened, Walker would be able to appoint an attorney general to fill Scott's unexpired term.

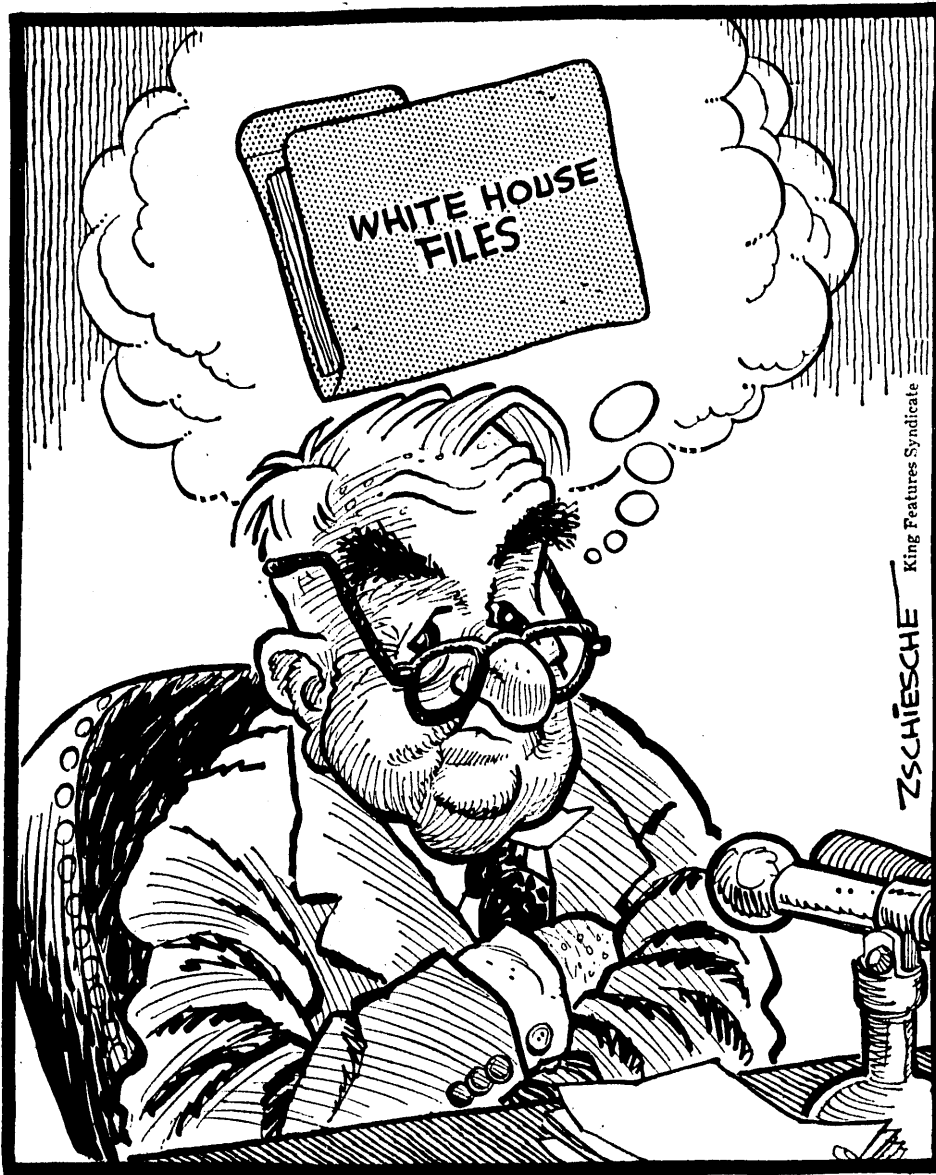

Blair said he had no intention of voting the power to convene a statewide grand jury for a Walker appointee.

The explanation had its ironies. For one thing, Walker's lobbyists were reported to be working the House floor to beat the Scott bill.

Also, few Republicans see locking horns at the ballot box with Stevenson as a pleasant prospect. The governorship race appears more attractive.

Which makes renewed fire-works between the two Republican rivals, Blair and Scott, increasingly likely in the months ahead.

Thoughts Of Chairman Ervin

Nixonites Smack Of Goldwaterism

By BRUCE BISSAT
WASHINGTON (NEA) — It is not really a far stretch to say that, even though Sen. Barry Goldwater lost the presidency, "Goldwaterism" — seen as a narrow, rigid, vengeful way of conducting government — has triumphed after all.

The Watergate story still is far from fully told, and there is certain to be much contradictory testimony both in the courts and the Senate committee hearing room. But corroborated evidence already indicates that the Nixon administration misused federal agencies to probe, harass and penalize its adversaries.

One needs to be very careful with comparisons. Goldwater himself is an easy-going, gentle-spirited man. He has plainly been horrified, and openly critical, at the major Watergate disclosures.

Even though his public utterance in the 1964 campaign is best remembered by some people for the uncompromising harshness of his acceptance speech, the fact is that Goldwater very often disappointed his more frenzied aides and supporters with the mildness of his political tone, conservative though it was.

There was nothing mild about the most ardent Goldwaterites. They were "rule or ruin" types who said "you're either with us or against us." They were distrustful, not least of the press, and eager to punish their adversaries.

Where they did achieve power as in the Republican National Committee and a considerable number of state party organizations, they sought high-handedly to obliterate all opposition and variation of viewpoint.

Goldwater's defeat by Lyndon Johnson, while crushing in its proportions, did not altogether snuff out their unyielding spirit. They boasted of his 27 million votes.

No one can prove, of course, what sort of men a victorious Goldwater would have placed around him in the White House. Yet, off the record of Goldwaterite performance in political organizations, it is a fair guess that some of the hot-eyed backers would have found key niches in his administration. It is also reasonable to assume they would not have parked their suspicions and their rigid hostilities at the White House door.

I know of no respected professional politician who has singled out 1964 Goldwater supporters to test their reactions to the broad Nixon administration plan of espionage and political sabotage put under the heading of Watergate. It is difficult to imagine, however, that many would disapprove of the "crush the enemy" spirit which appears to have animated the Nixon White House almost from the President's first days in office.

Indeed, more than a few influential Goldwater men found their way into Nixon's entourage.

An exhaustive combing of the personnel rosters might reveal many.

Included are former Attorney General Richard Kleindienst, a Goldwater manager; Frederick LaRue of Mississippi, strong Goldwaterite, and a key Nixon aide who now has pleaded guilty to obstructing justice in the Watergate affair; William Baroody, close Goldwater consultant and former Defense Department official in the Nixon regime.

A host of younger Nixon White House and re-election committee helpers either were not of age or were busy elsewhere in the Goldwater era. Yet they well fit the rigid 1964 mold.

Ann Landers:

Where Are YOU In List Of Daily Demands?

Dear Ann Landers: I want to say something to the 31-year-old wife and mother of three who is trying to do everything for everybody and ends up "Exhausted." That was me, eight years ago. I could have signed myself "Drained."

Here are my questions for HER:

Where are YOU in the list of daily demands? Do you like yourself well enough to save some time and energy for YOU? If you haven't learned to say no, better start practicing. Take a little time for yourself every day, and a lot of time now and then. Do what is important to YOU, not the part of you that is a sex object, a mop-pusher or a nurse for sick kids. If your husband doesn't realize you need time alone, have you tried TELLING him? If he doesn't get it, TELL him again. And this goes for your children, too. Love them and enjoy them, but don't let them own you. Children grow up. Husbands come and go. But you'll be with YOU for a lifetime. — The Living Me

Dear Living You: Beautiful. Just Beautiful. Thanks for putting it all together.

Dear Ann Landers: For years I've been annoyed by the digs at overweight people. We've been called "Baby Blimps," "Fat Cans," "Big Berthas" and so on.

Why is it that no one ever says a word about the 50-year-old turkey with a face like a dried prune? She wears size 8 shorts and a halter top when she does her marketing. Her legs look like a sparrow's when she clomps around in those ugly platform shoes.

Yes, I'm fat, but my husband would rather have me this way than looking like a bird who fell out of the nest. Thanks for letting me say it.—Feeling Fine

Dear F.: Now that you've said it, what am I going to say to those prune-faced, sparrow-legged size 8s who will be writing to me?

Dear Ann Landers: Our 20-year-old son tore your column out of the paper today and pinned it to the family bulletin board. Across the top he wrote: "See, I am right."

You talked about the importance of laughter, how it keeps people sane and said, "Life would be unbearable without it."

Our son, a college student, is a nice, clean kid who works summers to pay his own tuition. His problem is his mouth. He teases his 16-year-old brother unmercifully. He also makes cutting remarks to his eight-year-old brother who is overweight. The little guy is in tears most of the time.

Your column made him very happy. Please put your remarks in the proper context. My husband and I are sure you didn't mean what this boy seems to think you meant. — M and D

Dear M and D: You don't say whether this boy needs his friends or if he reserves his barbs for the family. I'm betting it's part of his total personality, and that he doesn't have many friends.

A 20-year-old knows the difference between laughter and ridicule. Laughter gives people a lift. Ridicule puts people down. I hope you will look deeper into this situation and give the older boy the emotional support he needs. He's a very unhappy kid who could use some counseling.

Major Oil Firms Scoff At Trust-Busting Efforts

By JAMES R. KING
United Press International
Major oil companies scoffed at the government's trust-busting efforts in the petroleum industry Wednesday. One of the eight corporate giants named in a Federal Trade Commission antitrust complaint said the government's action itself could result in higher gasoline prices. "It is not just a question of the FTC's wanting us out of the refining business," Shell Oil Co.'s Harry Bridges said in a statement issued from the company's Houston headquarters. "One senator wants us out of the transportation business. A Florida suit wants a separation between exploration and production from the rest. If all these things prevailed, the industry would be split into a large number of companies all working separately, and a company like Shell would have to become four different companies with different shareholders. Completely Inefficient

"This would be completely inefficient and would result in high prices to the consumer," he said. But outside the industry, the FTC charge seemed to stir new complaints against the major oil companies of monopolizing and contriving the fuel shortage to jack up prices and rake in bigger profits. In Philadelphia, Peter Page, the president of Pennsylvania's Mayors Association, called for a congressional "Watergate style" investigation of major oil firms, saying they are "out to screw the independent dealers and drive them out of business."

And on the West Coast, eight major oil firms including several named in Tuesday's FTC antitrust complaint were ordered to send representatives to court in Los Angeles today to answer questions about a 50 per cent increase in the amount the county has to pay for gasoline this year as compared with last.

San Francisco's electric utility company, which runs its generators on natural gas and oil, said it does not have enough fuel to run at full power and has made plans to reduce electricity to some of its 10 million customers next year if necessary. The firm also said it may resort to "selective blackouts." Oil company spokesmen vigorously denied FTC accusations that the shortage is their fault, saying it came about despite their efforts. The statement issued by B. R. Dorsey, board chairman of Gulf, was typical.

"Gulf and the industry have done an outstanding job in meeting the growing and changing energy needs of the American public," Dorsey said in Pittsburgh. "This is convincingly demonstrated by the fact that prices for gasoline and other petroleum products have risen at a much slower rate than the general rate of inflation in this country. I regret that this witch hunt comes at a time when we should be devoting all of our efforts to meeting the potentially serious energy shortage Americans face today."

Clients 'Disgusted' With Raid Probes

ALTON, Ill. (AP)—A lawyer who filed his third damage suit against federal narcotics agents Thursday, said his clients are "disgusted" over the investigations into mistaken drug raids. "They're disgusted by the slowness of the thing," said Richard Shaikewitz, an Alton lawyer who filed a $1 million suit Thursday against agents of the former federal Drug Abuse Law Enforcement (DALE) of St. Louis. The suit, which was filed in U. S. District Court at Springfield on behalf of Sterling Bell Jr., 29, of St. Louis, contends the federal drug agents "prevented justice, maliciously abused due progress of law and broke innumerable laws themselves" when they arrested Bell. Shaikewitz has filed two other suits in connection with mistaken federal drug raids in Edwardsville and Collinsville. Three other suits have also been filed by persons living in St. Louis and Wichita, Kan., and by another couple in Collinsville. Shaikewitz said his clients are "disatisfied that a several grand juries have investigated the drug raids and they have given statements to the FBI and DALE head from New York." "You start wondering if anything is ever going to come of these investigations, then they schedule another," he said, referring to the federal grand jury probe that was scheduled to begin Friday in Alton. The latest suit alleged that Bell was struck several times by federal agents when they took him into custody last Oct. 17 outside the St. Louis city hospital where he worked as a clerk. Bell, a pre-dental student at Southern Illinois University—Edwardsville and the father of three children, was accused of assaulting a federal officer by St. Louis Police and pleaded guilty to the charge in federal court and was fined $500. Shaikewitz alleged, however, that an agent did not identify himself when he attempted to arrest Bell, and that Bell thought the man was "some kind of nut" because a mental hospital is located near where the arrest occurred. Federal officials claimed the agent did identify himself properly and refused to comment further on the case. A St. Louis police officer, who said he was present during the arrest said, "Look, the man pleaded guilty to the assault charge. He had the option of going to trial. What more can I say?" Asked why Bell had waited to file the suit, Shaikewitz said Bell was questioned by a federal drug agent who said, "Bell sold them $100 worth of flour which was thought to be narcotics."

Asked why Bell had waited to file the suit, Shaikewitz said that he probably read about others recently filed and decided to do the same. "I would have thought he was crazy, if he came to me with this back in October," the Alton lawyer said, "because that was before those other incidents (mistaken raids) were known."

"All my experience with federal agents has shown that they are well-trained competent investigators. We don't get very many complaints about them," he said. More than $5,096,000 in damages have been filed in connection with drug investigations from June 1972 through June 19, 1973. The suits list damages for $3,696,000 against the federal government and another $1,400,000 against St. Louis and Illinois State authorities.

Walker Signs Abortion Laws Into Effect

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Three bills to permit abortions to be performed at the discretion of women and their physicians through the first six months of pregnancy were signed into law Thursday by Gov. Daniel Walker. Walker signed the measures, which take effect immediately, before leaving Springfield for a two-week vacation in Hawaii. The governor also approved a bill sponsored by Rep. Edmund F. Kucharski, R-Chicago, to allow physicians and nurses to refuse to take part in abortions for reasons of religion or conscience.

Under the new laws, drafted by the state Public Health Department, abortions in the final three months of pregnancy are barred unless performed to preserve the life or physical and mental health of the woman. All abortions after three months of pregnancy must be performed in licensed hospitals. The operation may not be performed except in sanitary facilities by a licensed physician affiliated with a licensed hospital. Even then, the patient must be provided with counseling and must give her written permission.

The laws allow abortions in the first three months of pregnancy to take place in so-called ambulatory surgical centers similar to clinics. Backed by the Illinois Medical Society and Illinois Hospital Association, the measures were considered by the proponents in view of the U.S. Supreme Court ruling in January that struck down laws banning abortion in many states. The old state law prohibited abortion except to save the life of the woman. The proponents argued that the bills provided a relatively stringent regulation of the operation that also could be expected to stand a court test. Without the measures, they said, abortions might legally be performed without regulation. Also required by the laws is reporting on a confidential basis of all abortions to the Department of Public Health. The department is drawing up a series of regulations, the governor's office said, to ensure adequate space, sanitation and safety in clinics where abortions are performed.

The first mill to roll copper in the United States was erected by Paul Revere in Canton, Mass., in 1801.

A typical ice storm occurs when temperatures are below 32 degrees F. and rain or drizzle falls, freezing on impact and sheathing everything with a glaze of ice.

Handyman Woes... Here's The Answer

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

Q. — I will be putting up some shelves soon. I have bought metal brackets and intend to screw them into the wall studs, but I am puzzled as to whether the long or short leg of each bracket should be attached to the wall.

A. — If you have the proper size bracket, the chances are that placement of the long leg under the shelf would make it extend beyond the undersurface of the wood. Since that would be unsightly as well as impractical, it is obvious that the short leg always goes under the wood or, to put it another way, the long leg always is attached to the wall.

Q. — Two years ago, I placed some wooden fence posts into the ground. All of them have loosened even though I set them in concrete after first resting them on about 2 inches of gravel. A neighbor says I didn't set them deep enough. I am going to take them up and start over again. How much should the posts go into the ground?

A. — The hole for the post should be about 1½ to 3 feet deep, depending on the length of the post. A rough rule-of-thumb is that about one-third of the post should be in the ground. Also, the bottom of the hole should be a bit wider than the top, which should be between 8 and 12 inches. When the post is in the ground and the concrete mix poured, trowel the mix at ground level so that it slopes away from the post, permitting rain water to flow away from the post.

Q. — I frequently use the pre-mixed cement products. I find them satisfactory, but I can never seem to figure out how much is needed for a particular job, with the result that sometimes I mix too much, sometimes too little. Is there any way of deciding how much to use?

A. — The manufacturers of pre-mixed cements have a chart which gives you an idea of the proper quantities to mix with water. But first let's establish that the gravel mix is for strong concrete, the sand mix for stucco and concrete patching, the mortar mix for laying bricks, stones and blocks. An 80-pound bag of sand mix covers 8 square feet one inch thick. An 80-pound bag of mortar mix will lay approximately 40 bricks or 14 blocks with a half-inch joint. A 90-pound bag of gravel mix will make 4 square feet of concrete

2 inches thick. You'll have to do your own arithmetic if you use smaller quantities.

Q. — What is meant by a "wash" coat of shellac?

A. — It's a rather general term meaning a small portion of shellac to a large portion of denatured alcohol. It can range from three to 10 times the amount of alcohol to shellac.

(The techniques of using varnish, lacquer, shellac, wood fillers, stains and bleaches are explained in Andy Lang's helpful booklet, "Wood Finishing in the Home," obtainable by sending 30 cents and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Know-How, P.O. Box 477, Huntington, N.Y. 11743.)

Bus Crash In France Kills 43

VIZILLE, France (UPI) — A Belgian tourist bus hurtled out of control down a steep mountain road, smashed through a bridge parapet and plunged 65 feet into a rain-swollen river Wednesday in France's worst road disaster, police said.

They said 43 persons were killed and there were six survivors. One of the survivors, a 60-year-old woman, was seriously injured.

The bus, owned by the Songienne Company of Soignies, crashed at a point where a series of accidents have made the Napolen Road infamous in this Alpine region of southern France. The road, which is on a 14-degree decline over four miles, is plastered with warning signs carrying the skull and crossbones.

Police said by dawn 41 of the 43 bodies were recovered and frogmen searched the Romanche River for the last two.

A motorist who saw the accident said, "The bus came down the road at reduced speed but about 100 meters (yards) from the bridge, it suddenly accelerated, crashed through the bridge parapet and dropped into the river."

Four persons—a priest, a woman, a girl and a young man—fell or jumped from the bus before it crashed. Two boys, aged 13 and 15, swam to the shore.

Idaho has 2,000 lakes and 35,000 miles of streams.

THE UNEXPECTED

What if you looked out your window and saw an elephant standing in your back yard? Would you think you'd been transported to Africa—or that the zoo had lost a boarder?

Situations just as bizarre and unexpected can happen anywhere, anytime, to anyone. When they happen to you, are you able to cope with them?

Merely attending church isn't going to solve all your problems. But it will help build a base that teaches you how to take the unexpected in stride. And life, when you get down to it, is in itself unexpected.

Start going to church next Sunday.

YOUR BIRTHDAY AND HOROSCOPE

SATURDAY, JULY 21—Born today, you are a highly original person with a sense of the dramatic that enables you to take from the most common happenings that extra something that lends the utmost in enjoyment to your involvement. It may well be that you will exercise your dramatic sense through a career in the theater—not necessarily on-stage, however, for your talents will probably be best expressed through positions of influence behind the scenes. The fact that you prefer working independently to being a member of a crew indicates that dramatic writing might be your forte.

Your interests range over a very wide field and for this reason you may go through a period of relative confusion as to whom you are and what you want to do with your life that is greater than the "identity crisis" most people go through. In the end, however, you should be able to see your own nature clearly and to suit it to those activities which express it best. Only an immature disillusionment with yourself and your expectations can keep you from breaking through to success.

Early in life you will learn to keep your own counsel, to protect your feelings from the judgment of other people. Such an approach to your personal responses and reactions will, of course, keep you from being hurt at times—but it may also keep you from being able to establish those close relationships with others which only a sharing of emotions can foster.

To find what is in store for you tomorrow, select your birthday and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

Sunday, July 22
CANCER (June 21-July 22)—Use your powers of invention to overcome barriers to mutual understanding among family members. Morning worship helps to bring the family together.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)—Lend your efforts to those of others in the interest of success for a family enterprise. Younger family members may need help with decisions.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)—Reveal to others those things which you would be judged on. Otherwise, keep your own counsel and rely on personal charm.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)—Take care that you don't become so involved in present endeavors that you fail to benefit from the rewards accruing from projects of the past.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)—A Sunday for setting your own house in order. See to it that family members understand your insistence on reorganizing the home front.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)—Put off heavy labor for another time. You will need all your reserves of energy if you are fully to enjoy events of late afternoon and evening.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)—Self-discipline makes it possible for you to take advantage of your own ability to make much of little today. Keep yourself ready for change.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)—Don't fall victim to another's tendency to pigeonhole information. Be ready to explain your involvement in what appears an unsavory affair.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)—Church attendance brings you into contact with an old friend. Take advantage of an opportunity to get to know one of influence in your field.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)—Make an effort to discover whether or not you're fitted to the work you propose for yourself before you commit yourself to it irrevocably.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)—Tenacity where your ideals are concerned is essential if you are to attain your desired goal. You will forfeit much if you lower your standards.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)—Though the struggle for the recognition has been long, the attainment of it still eludes you. Fight off a tendency to become bitter at this particular time.

VERSAILLES CHURCH PICNIC SUNDAY
VERSAILLES—The LaGrange Chapel annual Sunday school picnic will be after services Sunday, July 22, at the church.

The annual rural Washington School reunion and basket dinner at noon will be August 5 at Rotary park in Mt. Sterling.

Helping him celebrate were his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Wilson; brothers, Doug and Eric; and Mrs. Roy Wilson, Mrs. Barbara Miller, Susan and Brad of Versailles; Mr. and Mrs. Richard Penington and Rick of Meredosia; and Mrs. Birdie Crowell of Beardstown.

Mr. and Mrs. Slater Hanks have returned from a vacation trip to Las Vegas, Nevada.

Building Climbs
Apartment buildings in the United States climbed to 866,100 units in 1971. Units in structures housing three or more families accounted for 41.6 per cent of all housing starts.

LIZ BURTON REUNITED
ROME (AP) — Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton held an emotional, wet-eyed reunion Friday, rekindling their love affair in the city where it all began.

They hugged and kissed for minutes, then drove off without talking to a crowd of newsmen gathered for the event in Rome's Clamping Airport. Miss Taylor arrived there from London.

The reunion ended a 16-day separation begun, as Miss Taylor put it, because the couple had "maybe loved each other too much."

The scene of the reunion was the Clamping parking lot. Burton had flown up from Taormina, Sicily, where he attended a film festival.

They drove off to the villa of Carlo Ponti and his wife, actress Sophia Loren, in the Alban Hills south of Rome.

New Berlin On 'Waiting List' For State Grant

NEW BERLIN — Don Houser of Casler, Houser, Hutchison Consulting Engineer firm at Jacksonville, and James Handling, representative of the FHA met with the New Berlin village board at a special meeting July 17th to review and discuss the projected Village sanitary sewer project. The funding of the project was the main topic of discussion.

Mr. Houser explained that at this time there is no firm policy for allocation of state grants. The tentative arrangement is that the federal grant will go up to 75 percent of the entire project, for high priority areas, while the state, in turn, will allocate funds up to 75 percent of the entire project to low priority areas. However, these guidelines, as pointed out by Houser, are only tentative and subject to change.

State and federal priorities must be established before the project can be considered. The priority list is based on the amount of pollution an area is causing, the readiness of the area to proceed with the proposed project and the population of the area. At the present time, the Village of New Berlin is considered low in all of these areas.

The Village Board was assured by Mr. Houser that the village application for funds is current and on file with FHA, HUD, State EPA and Federal EPA. Mr. Handling told board members funds should be available in the very near future and that the village will be contacted at that time.

At the regular session of the Village Board, plans were made for the State Department of Conservation to stock the New Berlin reservoir for public fishing in the near future.

The Davis and Smith Construction Co. bid was accepted to repair the tile outlets at the east end of town.

George Southard of Southard Tree Service and Willard DeLong of DeLong Tree Service were asked to submit bids for tree service needed on town property.

A detailed report compiled on water usage and cost was presented by the water committee for rate structure study and the cost study of plant operation.

Skylab Shield Trouble Blamed On Poor Design

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP)

— An investigative board has blamed poor engineering and a lack of sufficient communication between contractors and the space agency for the shield trouble that almost ruined the first Skylab mission.

The report issued on Thursday said that, because of poor design, air pressure built up inside a tunnel under the shield as the Skylab was being launched May 14. The pressure could not be properly vented, and the paper-thin aluminum shield tore away from the side of the 85-ton station that it encircled.

"When the meteoroid shield was torn loose by the supersonic air stream, it broke the tie-downs which hold one of the two solar array systems on the Skylab workshop," the report said.

"Later, about 10 minutes into the flight, the solar array wing was completely torn away when it was struck by the exhaust plume of the second stage retrorocket," the board said.

The second power-producing solar wing was jammed against the side of the workshop by a strip of aluminum from the damaged shield.

Without the shield, the laboratory absorbed rather than reflected the sun's heat, and temperatures inside the orbiting station soared to an unlivable 125 degrees.

The board was appointed by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration and headed by Bruce T. Lundin, director of the agency's Lewis Research Center, Cleveland, Ohio. It said the openings that allowed air into the shield tunnel "resulted from a failure of communications among aerodynamics, structural design and manufacturing personnel...."

"These design deficiencies of the meteoroid shield, as well as the failure to communicate within the project the critical nature of its proper venting, must therefore be attributed to an absence of sound engineering judgment and alert engineering leadership considering this particular system over a considerable period of time (six years)," the report said.

The launching of Skylab 1 astronauts Charles Conrad Jr., Dr. Joseph P. Kerwin and Paul J. Weitz was postponed 10 days while experts designed an umbrella-like sunshade, which the spacemen successfully erected over the exposed area.

That cooled the lab so they could live and work there. Later, with power becoming critically short, Conrad and Kerwin freed the stuck solar wing during a space walk and nearly doubled the electricity aboard.

That enabled them to complete their 28-day mission and set up the laboratory for the Skylab 2 astronauts who are to rocket to it July 28 for 56 days of experiments.

Downer Resigns Post With Urban Renewal, Joins Faculty At IC

By FRANK BRIDGEWATER

James M. Downer, Assistant Director and Relocation Officer in the Jacksonville Department of Urban Renewal, has submitted his resignation to accept the position as Director of Admissions at Illinois College. In announcing Downer's resignation, effective July 31, Mayor Milt Hocking Friday morning praised the 1966 IC graduate for doing a "fine job" and said he will "hate to see him leave."

Urban Renewal Director Byron Holkenbrink, who also commended Downer, said the resignation would cause no delay in the city's urban renewal program.

The search for a successor to Downer is underway, Holkenbrink said. "We would hope we find the right person rather promptly," he added. The director said he thinks someone will be found to replace Downer before Downer leaves.

I.C. Graduate
Downer, 29 this month, graduated from I.C. in 1966 with a Bachelor of Arts degree in history. He attended law school one year and is a veteran of Vietnam. His wife, the former Kathy Coultas of Winchester, is also a graduate of the college. In making the appointment of Downer, Illinois College President Donald C. Munding stated, "I feel he will have the talent and personality to provide a valuable service in the area of admissions and to work with our alumni and friends."

Downer said the main basis for accepting the position on the I.C. staff was the opportunity it afforded. "I feel this is an outstanding opportunity, which I cannot pass up at this time," Downer wrote in his letter of resignation to the mayor.

Downer, who has been with the UR Department for a year and seven months, will assume his duties at Illinois College on August 1.

UR Progress
Holkenbrink, discussing the Urban Renewal demolition work scheduled on North Main St., said a crane operator and oiler from Kansas City will be in town Monday to start work. Holkenbrink said it would take three days to finish off the North Main buildings and another three days to level the old ice plant further north.

Arrangements have been made through Alderman Carl Bourn to haul some of the material from the razed buildings to Lake Jacksonville, where it will be used as rip rap.

The UR director said C. S. Ehinger, in charge of the demolition operation, will level the buildings, haul away the debris, pour about two feet of sand in the basements, and then fill the holes with various sizes of rock.

The area will then be sprayed with a type of liquid asphalt to provide temporary parking lots until next year when the lots can be asphalted and parking meters can be planted.

STRONG QUAKE
ROCKS TOKYO
TOKYO (UPI) — A relatively strong earthquake rocked the metropolitan Tokyo area Friday but police reported no injuries or damage.

Street lights on an elevated superhighway viewed from the windows of the UPI Tokyo bureau shook back and forth but no cracks appeared in the pavement. The Japan Broadcasting Corp. radio reported an intensity of four on the Japanese scale of seven in Mito, about 60 miles north of Tokyo, three in Choshi, 60 miles east of Tokyo, and two in Tokyo.

The epicenter of the quake was located 25 miles below sea level off Ibaragi Prefecture, north of Tokyo, a seismological agency in the capital said.

UAW Presents Chrysler With Demands

DETROIT (AP) — Demands for a guaranteed holiday period between Christmas and New Years were presented to Chrysler Friday as the United Auto Workers and the Big Three automakers wound up their first week of talks.

The UAW asked Ford for more vacation time. At General Motors, where the union presentation ended Thursday, subcommittees began studying the union's proposals.

"I'm not taking any contract back for ratification without that shutdown period" between Christmas and New Year's, said Doug Fraser, UAW vice president for Chrysler.

The union won the week-long paid vacation period during the last contract through rescheduling of holidays.

The Christmas holiday period varies through the next three years so that one additional day would be needed in 1973-74 and two each in 1974-75 and 1975-76, Fraser said.

In addition, the union is asking that the day after Thanksgiving, and the birthdays of UAW founder Walter Reuther and Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. be added to the list of 12 paid holidays.

Also included in the demands were unspecified improvements in scheduling vacations and amount of paid vacation time, which now runs from one week after one year to five weeks after 20 years.

At Ford, UAW negotiators presented the union's bonus vacation plan, stipulating that workers with good attendance records be given additional paid vacation — "as much as we can get from the company," said Ken Bannon, UAW vice president for Ford.

The union also asked for a pension of $650 per month for retirees at age 65. If they retire early, the pension would be $500 per month until age 65.

In other auto news, Chrysler Corp. became the last of the Big Three Friday to serve notice it will ask the government for price hikes on its 1974 model cars.

Like GM and Ford, Chrysler did not indicate the size of the increase it will seek.

Tapes

John D. Ehrlichman, Nixon's former chief domestic affairs adviser, said he hopes the White House will produce the tapes.

"I think they will be the ultimate evidence," Ehrlichman said in an interview with Gerald Seymour of Britain's Independent Television News.

Ehrlichman, who has himself been accused in testimony before the Senate committee of complicity in the cover-up of the Watergate burglary, said he had not known his conversations with Nixon were being taped but said he would have nothing to worry about if the tapes were made public.

"Thinking back, I may have said some things about some people to the President that were very frank and candid and unvarnished but as far as events and circumstances or my position in this whole controversy, I don't think I have a thing to worry about as far as those tapes are concerned," Ehrlichman said. "I'm delighted they are there."

Warren said Nixon would transmit his decision on the tapes in a letter to Watergate committee Chairman Sam L. Ervin Jr., D-N.C. The White House said previously that Nixon planned to work on the letter during a weekend stay at Camp David, Md.

Strachan

Mardian, a former assistant attorney general, said the conversation took place at Nixon's home in San Clemente, Calif., after he had relayed word that J. Edgar Hoover might be able to use secret wiretap logs as a club to prolong his tenure as director of the FBI.

The questioning of Mardian wandered from his role as lawyer for Nixon's re-election committee in the month after the June 17, 1972, burglary and wiretapping of Democratic party headquarters to his earlier post in the Justice Department. Mardian denied any part in the cover-up of Watergate.

Mardian said associate FBI Director William Sullivan had confided that he expected to be fired by Hoover and feared "some very sensitive national security surveillance logs" might fall into Hoover's hands. These were the tapes of wiretaps that had been placed on telephones of some National Security Council staffers and newsmen.

21-gun Salute

LINDBERG HOLDS AID FUNDS FOR JUNIOR COLLEGES

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — State Comptroller George W. Lindberg said Friday he will block temporarily the spending of $59,697,900 in state aid to junior colleges for the current fiscal year.

Lindberg said in a statement he asked Atty. Gen. William J. Scott to clarify a technicality involving Gov. Daniel Walker's trimming of the money bill.

The funds are for pay and expenses of the junior college board staff, the flat-grant aid program under which the state finances the schools and the operating budget of state community college in East St. Louis.

Lindberg noted that in cutting the overall appropriation from $6,825,000 to $59,697,900, Walker cited his so-called reduction veto powers under the constitution.

The comptroller also noted the governor lowered from $18.50 to $17.61 the rate for flat grants the state pays the colleges for each semester hour of instruction of Illinois resident students. This cut, Lindberg suggested, might better be viewed as an amendatory veto, not a reduction veto.

Lindberg asked Scott to say which kind of veto it is, reduction or amendatory. The difference is that, if it is amendatory, it may be illegal to spend the money before the measure is reconsidered by the legislature.

Prices For Hogs Drop Back After Thursday Boom

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Hog prices fell as much as $1.50 at the nation's marketing centers Friday and specialists said the record increase following Phase 4's lifting of the freeze could have been a one-day boom.

Porker prices shot up by as much as $6 per hundredweight Thursday in an overnight impact from President Nixon's new economic program, which no longer restricts prices on hogs, sheep and poultry. The price freeze was left on beef until Sept. 12.

"It was a boom the first day but now a plateau may be becoming established," said Donald Jones, acting officer in charge of the Market News Office of the U.S. Department of Agriculture in Chicago.

"It now may be leveling itself out, but it still can be regarded as unpredictable. Friday is not a good measuring day anyway. Packers buy up their supplies earlier in the week and deliveries decrease accordingly."

In a survey of 11 midwestern markets Friday, Jones said 33,500 hogs arrived compared with 20,000 a week ago and 29,000 a year ago. The respective average costs were $46.75, $42.51 and $28.80.

He said there were not enough sheep on the market to establish a trend. Only 1,700 were on the midwestern markets Friday and over the entire week there were $1 to $2 increases. In terms of supply and demand, he said, the price rise was about normal.

Prices

Under Phase 4, the freeze was lifted immediately on food, except beef which will remain under price ceilings until Sept. 12. The freeze on most other sectors of the economy is to be lifted Aug. 12.

Director John T. Dunlop of the Cost of Living Council told newsmen it is unlikely that any additional industries will be exempted from wage and price controls before Aug. 12. Phase 4 provides for decontrols over sectors in which inflation is subsiding.

Dunlop also said it was possible there may be some beef shortages before price ceilings go off in September as ranchers hold supplies off the market in hopes of getting higher prices later.

THEFTS REPORTED

Carol Gills, 521 East Chambers, reported to city police Friday someone stole a bicycle from her residence. F. B. Nelson, 739 West State, reported someone stole a five-foot rubber tree from his back porch. The plant was in an orange plastic bucket.

'Eat Your Vegetables'

LIVERMORE, Calif. (AP) — "I just wanted to make the President feel happy," 8-year-old John W. James III said Friday with a bashful grin.

So, when John recovered from pneumonia he scrawled a get-well note to President Nixon, who had just entered Bethesda Naval Medical Center with the same ailment.

John's prescription to the President: "Now you be a good boy and eat your vegetables like I had too (sic). If you take your medicine and your shots, you'll be out of the hospital in eight days like I was."

He signed it, "Love, John." John's mother, Vivian, said she didn't think her son should have advised Nixon to be a "good boy," but felt "it was his letter."

When Nixon left the hospital Friday after a week's stay, he read John's penciled, binder-paper note before several hundred employees who greeted him at the White House Rose Garden. "But I hate vegetables," the President quipped.

SEWAGE UPGRADE EXTENSION GRANTED THURSDAY

CHICAGO (AP) — The Illinois Pollution Control Board has approved a one-year extension for Illinois communities to upgrade their sewage treatment facilities.

The new deadline, set by the board at a Thursday meeting, is Dec. 31, 1974.

Communities, pinched between tough state effluent standards and the lack of federal funds, board through the Illinois Municipal League.

Thomas Fitzsimmons, the league's assistant executive director, said, "To allow more time was the only practical thing for the board to do. It's still going to be very tough to overcome the absence of the federal dollar."

Funds for sewage treatment projects in Illinois totaling $685.6 million for fiscal 1973 and 1974 had been appropriated by Congress. After President Nixon impounded some of the funds last fall, Illinois's federal share was cut to $312.4 million, a pollution board spokesman said.

Adding to the problem, the spokesman said, is the refusal of the federal government to reimburse the state for loans made to communities for sewage treatment projects as has been done in the past.

WALKER SIGNS COMPENSATION BILL

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — A 14 per cent increase in Illinois workmen's compensation benefits has been signed into law by Gov. Daniel Walker, his office announced Friday.

Top death or permanent disability payments go from $78 to $89.90 a week and maximum temporary benefits from $99.50 to $113.40 under the bills. The rise was a major goal of the Illinois AFL-CIO in the spring legislature session.

In signing the bills, the Democratic governor attacked "obstructionist Republicans" for not approving even more money for workmen's compensation and the Illinois Industrial Commission. That panel awards the benefits.

"By a strict partisan vote, the Republican-dominated Senate knocked down the funding of the Industrial Commission, which makes effective administration of the Workmen's Compensation Act close to impossible," Walker declared.

The governor signed the bills July 13. His press office waited until Friday, one day after he left for a two-week vacation in Hawaii, to announce the action.

KNACK FUNERAL AT MEREDOSIA

Ushers were Edwin Ommen, and Charles Williams. Palbearers were Wilmet Cooley, Fred Heitbrink, Francis Meier, Fred Heitbrink, Marvin Schlieker, and Fred Vortman.

In charge of flowers were Mrs. Betty Cooley, Mrs. Hazel Heitbrink, Mrs. Georgeanna Morton, Mrs. Dorothy Schlieker and Miss Elsie Surratt. Cody and Son Memorial Home was in charge of arrangements.

RECYCLE CENTER OPEN IN BROWN

MT. STERLING—From eight o'clock in the morning to 12 noon this Saturday, July 21st, the Recycling Center in Mt. Sterling will be open for accepting old newspapers (no magazines because of dyes), the papers to be tied in firm bundles; clean, clear glass bottles, etc., without metal caps, etc. and labels are allowed; and clean cans, these free of labels and flattened. The Saturday hours for such collection will continue through August.

"I heard on the news in the hospital the President was sick, too, so I decided to write him a letter," said the tall, slender lad at his Livermore home, about 40 miles east of San Francisco.

"I like the President, I think he's a nice man," said John, a third grader who hopes to meet the President someday and wants to become a geologist or veterinarian.

John's mother, a Republican precinct worker who voted for Nixon along with her husband, said, "I tell my son and daughter to do nice things for others and not expect any reward, so when something nice like this happens, it really pays off."

Libya Says Khadafy Resignation Refused

TRIPOLI, Libya (AP) — Libya said Saturday that the Egyptian news agency was correct in its report of the July 11 resignation of Col. Moammar Khadafy, this country's fiery young leader. But a government statement said the resignation was refused the same day.

Cairo's official Middle East News Agency reported Friday night that Khadafy announced his resignation in a message to President Anwar Sadat of Egypt, noting that he took the action July 11.

The Saturday communique from the ruling Revolutionary Command Council, of which Khadafy is chairman, confirmed that the Libyan strongman stepped down July 11, but added: "The members of the RCC rejected the resignation on the very day it was presented by Col. Khadafy."

The council communique was carried by the official Libyan News Agency. It said Khadafy resigned his posts as president and chairman of the council in a cable to Sadat to clear the way for the proposed merger between the two Arab nations.

It said Khadafy had "no authority" to resign, since he was called to leadership by the will of the Libyan people.

The announcement called on "the whole Arab world but mainly the Libyan people..." to continue the Arab revolution "with the leadership of its maker and planner, Col. Khadafy."

Khadafy has periodically resigned or threatened to resign in the past, but has remained in firm control of the leadership among the young Libyan officers who toppled the monarchy of King Idris in September 1969.

The Cairo news agency report indicates Khadafy reaffirmed his resignation Friday in a message to Sadat in which he disclaimed responsibility for a march by 20,000 Libyans into Egypt.

The "Unity Trek" was designed to push the Egyptians, who prefer to go slow on the merger, toward Khadafy's objective of union by Sept. 1.

The Egyptians blew up a section of the main highway to Cairo near Mersa Matruh on Friday.

FINES ASSESSED IN CIRCUIT COURT ON GUILTY PLEAS

Judge John B. Wright assessed several fines after accepting pleas of guilty from five defendants Friday morning.

David Wantland, 17, of Waverly entered a plea of guilty to no valid operator's license and was fined $100 and $10 costs and admitted to probation for six months during which to pay the fine.

Dianna M. Edmiston, 17, of 894 Hardin pleaded guilty to no valid operator's license and was fined $100 and $10 costs and admitted to probation for six months to pay the fine.

Jackie Adams, 18, of 1112 E. Independence pleaded guilty to permitting an unauthorized person to drive and was fined $25 and $10 costs.

Vernon Boker, 22, of Route 1 entered a plea of guilty to a charge of illegal possession of liquor and was fined $25 and $10 costs.

Lloyd Reese, 17, of Waverly entered a plea of guilty to driving too fast for conditions and was fined $50 and $10 costs.

WAGNER MAN ELECTROCUTED THURSDAY

LITCHFIELD, Ill. (AP) — A Wagner, Ill., man was electrocuted Thursday when the truck he was driving on a construction project north of here accidentally hit an electric power line, State Police said.

Jerry Hampton, 23, was killed while working on an Interstate 55 construction project. Authorities said he had dumped a load of dirt with his dump tractor truck, and while driving away the dump bed hit a 7,200-volt electric power line.

CANNERY WORKERS HALT ENDANGERS CROPS

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A strike by more than 65,000 cannery workers in the nation's largest farm state is endangering hundreds of millions of dollars worth of crops and threatens to drive food prices even higher.

California agricultural officials said that if the strike lasts more than three days "we're in critical condition."

Regents Reject Springfield Law School Plan

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — The Illinois Board of Regents voted Thursday against recommending law school for the Springfield area.

The board, meeting at Sangamon State University, approved a staff report that cited political and financial barriers to the proposal.

The report said the University of Illinois had not received funding for expansion of its law school and Southern Illinois University-Carbondale was having difficulty finding money to develop its new law school. The two schools and the Board of Higher Education probably would oppose a new school, the report said.

The financial problem, the report said, was that the state is in a period of austerity. Sangamon State University, however, was permitted to explore paraprofessional legal programs. These programs prepare students to perform many tasks in legal offices. A program that would grant degrees would require the approval of the board of regents.

Green Stamps May Now Be Traded For Cash

WASHINGTON (AP) — Shoppers who collect Green Stamps will now be able to trade them in for money, according to an announcement from the Federal Trade Commission.

The announcement said the Sperry & Hutchinson Co., has agreed to redeem the books of stamps for cash nationwide. S&H is the nation's largest trading stamp firm.

The agreement came in a provisional consent order after nearly eight years of litigation, and FTC officials said they hope the competition will force other firms to offer money for their stamps also.

Initially each book of stamps will be worth $2, with adjustments in the future based on the value of merchandise offered for redemption.

The commission said some states already have laws calling for cash redemption, but only seven require payment of as much as $2. Savers will also be able to redeem partially filled books for less, with the minimum being 50 cents for 200 stamps. It takes 1200 stamps to fill a book. S&H has estimated that the value of merchandise redeemable for a full book of stamps is $3.

THREE PAY FINES IN TRAFFIC CASES

Three defendants appeared before Judge John B. Wright Friday afternoon and entered pleas of guilty to traffic offenses.

Gerald Halligan, 17, of Route 3, entered a plea of guilty to reckless driving and was fined $100 and $10 costs.

Ronald D. Lowder, 22, of Waverly entered a plea of guilty to illegal transportation of liquor and was fined $50 and $10 costs.

Terry H. Hammers, 23, of 319 Anna entered a plea of guilty to no valid registration and was fined $15 and $10 costs.

THE DOCTOR SAYS

Spleen Functions Aren't All Known

Dr. Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.
Dear Dr. Lamb — I am writing you today concerning my mother who is 82 years old. Until recently she was in perfect health. Now she has developed heart trouble, diabetes and high blood pressure. The last physical examination revealed that she now has an enlarged spleen and was anemic. Iron pills were prescribed for this.

What is the spleen? The doctor did not prescribe medicine for this condition, nor did he recommend surgery. He said that the enlarged spleen was not dangerous and recommended that she watch her diet. How serious is this condition?

Dear Reader — The spleen is a very small organ that lies just under the diaphragm at the edge of the ribs on the left side. It's just above the left kidney. Normally it's a small organ, less than half the size of your hand. It's like a large lymph ph gland. Many of the old blood cells are destroyed within the spleen. All of its functions are not clear. It may enlarge when a person has a fever or if there is a heart failure which may be the situation with your mother. Its importance depends entirely on what's causing it. It can be a factor in some types of anemia and low white blood cell counts.

I presume that the type and degree of anemia that your mother has was such that your doctor felt satisfied that it was unrelated to the enlargement of the spleen. He may also have felt that the enlargement of the spleen was minimal and more likely related to her heart problems. There isn't any way I can give you a definite answer. The only thing you can do is to depend on the doctor's judgment. After all he knows how big the spleen is and how severe the anemia is as well as the rest of the problem, including the severity of the heart disease.

Dear Dr. Lamb — What is a spot on the lung? What causes it? Is it dangerous? We have heard so much about it recently via John Wayne and Johnny Bench on television. One said cancer, the other said it had to be analyzed to determine what caused it. Is it necessary to have an operation if it is determined that there is a spot on the lung?

Dear Reader — A spot on the lung is just a spot on the lung until a better diagnosis is made. Sometimes a spot on the lung represents an old infection of one of the fungus diseases of the lung such as histoplasmosis or coccidioidomycosis. These fungus diseases may leave a spot on the lung after the inflammation is over and the spot may have no important significance. On the other hand, a spot on the lungs may well be cancer. There are differences in the X-ray characteristics between some spots that enable a doctor to have a pretty good idea if they are cancer or not, but if there's any question the only way the problem can be solved is by surgical removal of the area and examination. Certainly, if a spot is found and there's any question about it, the quicker surgery is achieved the better likelihood of a successful outcome.

Lung cancer is very common in American men. Ninety percent of all men who have lung cancer smoke cigarettes. It is probably an example of preventable disease. It may sound strange to say that you can prevent cancer but there are a number of cancers which can be prevented and the large number of lung cancers appears to be a good example. Merely by avoiding smoking cigarettes the incidence of lung cancer can be sharply reduced.

PORTUGUESE WALNUT SQUARES

Adapted from the delightful new cookbook, "Recipes from the Portuguese of Provincetown" by Margaret H. Koehler (Chatham). 1/2 cup butter 3/4 cup packed light brown sugar 1 egg 1/2 teaspoon vanilla 5 tablespoons port wine 1 1/2 cups finely chopped walnuts 1/2 cup unsifted flour 1/2 teaspoon baking powder

Glaze, see below
Cream butter and sugar; beat in egg, then vanilla and 2 tablespoons of the port and 1 cup of the walnuts. Stir together the flour and baking powder and gradually add to creamed mixture. Turn into a lightly buttered and floured 9-inch square cake pan. Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven until a cake tester inserted in center comes out clean — about 25 minutes. Remove from oven and dribble with the remaining 3 tablespoons port. Cool in pan. Spread Glaze over top and sprinkle with remaining 1/2 cup walnuts. Let stand until glaze is firm. Cut into 16 large squares or 32 small bars. This cake-like dessert is very soft so you may want to chill it before and after cutting.

Glaze: Mix together 1 cup confectioners' sugar, dash of salt, 1 tablespoon butter and 1 tablespoon port until smooth.

Fit to Be Tied

The wearing of neckties started with a Croatian victory in one of the 17th century's Turkish-Austrian Wars. Fighting for Austria, the Croats were feted in Paris after they had routed the Turks in a battle. Admiring Parisians copied the flowing linen scarves worn by the soldiers and called the new neckwear "cravats" in the soldiers' honor.

 DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve is with those car manufacturers who expect us to redesign ourselves to fit their latest styling. Women sit too low and too close to the wheel. Men often hit the ceiling of the new low models and concave seat backs cramp the driver's back and shoulders. A wheel set close to the dash, a seat that moves up and down and a straight

DEAR POLLY — I would like to know how to remove the shine from a blue serge suit. — JOHN

DEAR POLLY — and Joy — As a former alterations and repair worker I am familiar with the repairing of leather, vinyl and plastic materials. Ingenuity is the first requisite as various types of damage require different types of repair. Holes and tears of the size of a cigarette burn are mended by fitting in a piece obtained from the garment's hem or a seam. Fit the piece flush in the damaged area using leather glue. Back the patched area with a piece of cheesecloth or a small piece of gummed hem tape such as used for putting up hems in leather garments. For snags, tears or splits, the cheesecloth or the sticky tape on the wrong side should suffice. Use waterproof marking ink on the butting edges of a patch to blend in with the garment. This ink comes in many colors. Underarm damage is best repaired by removing the damaged area and inseting a matching colored gusset cut of elasticized or stretch fabric in a weight suitable for the garment. Leather should be sewn by hand with a glover's needle and with seams of not more than one-eighth inch overcast closely. Such a needle has a very sharp triangular point. Old garments are often a source of supply for patches or one could go to a leather outlet, shoe repair shop or glove factory. — MRS. R. P.

Never Toss Out Today What You May Be Able To Wear Tomorrow

By JOY STILLEY

NEW YORK (AP) — Never throw out today what you may be able to wear tomorrow.

If I had only followed that maxim I could become the most stylish lady on my block by just digging into my attic instead of my wallet.

What goes out will soon be back in, and hoarders eventually have a collection of old clothes that rivals the latest collections from Paris.

Take twin sweaters, for instance. In their first incarnation not too many years ago, the matching duo made hit parade. With single-mindedness I pursued the accumulation of this double fashion feature. I went out and bought twin sweater sets like they were going out of style.

Nobody would have been caught dead with a matched sweater set in her bureau drawer, and I surely wasn't going to be caught alive in possession of such outmoded attire. Out they went, every last one of them.

Players of the fashion game have made numerous calculated moves since that time, and now they've stopped once more at the square marked Sweaters, Twin.

When I started seeing double again I dashed to the trunk that serves as our apartment-size attic in hopes that a couple of strays might have survived the passage of time, the Goodwill bag and the appetite of our resident moths.

Not a trace. The only two-of-a-kind I found were a few pairs of pointed shoes that went out of style the same week that I finally got my toes trained to pile themselves one on top of another rather than line up side by side.

I got caught again in the belt boom, bust and boomerang. Before the sack dress gave them the status of a raincoat in the Sahara I had a supply of leather circles that threatened to put cows on the endangered species list.

In fact, I had such an investment that I couldn't bear to throw them out and kept them for years coiled like snakes in dark corners of closets. I finally gave up and discarded them — only one season before bells surged back onto the fashion scene.

The chubbies, the platform shoes, the turbans that I cast out years ago would all come in handy again. But Dame Fashion won't fool me any more, now that I am on to her tricks.

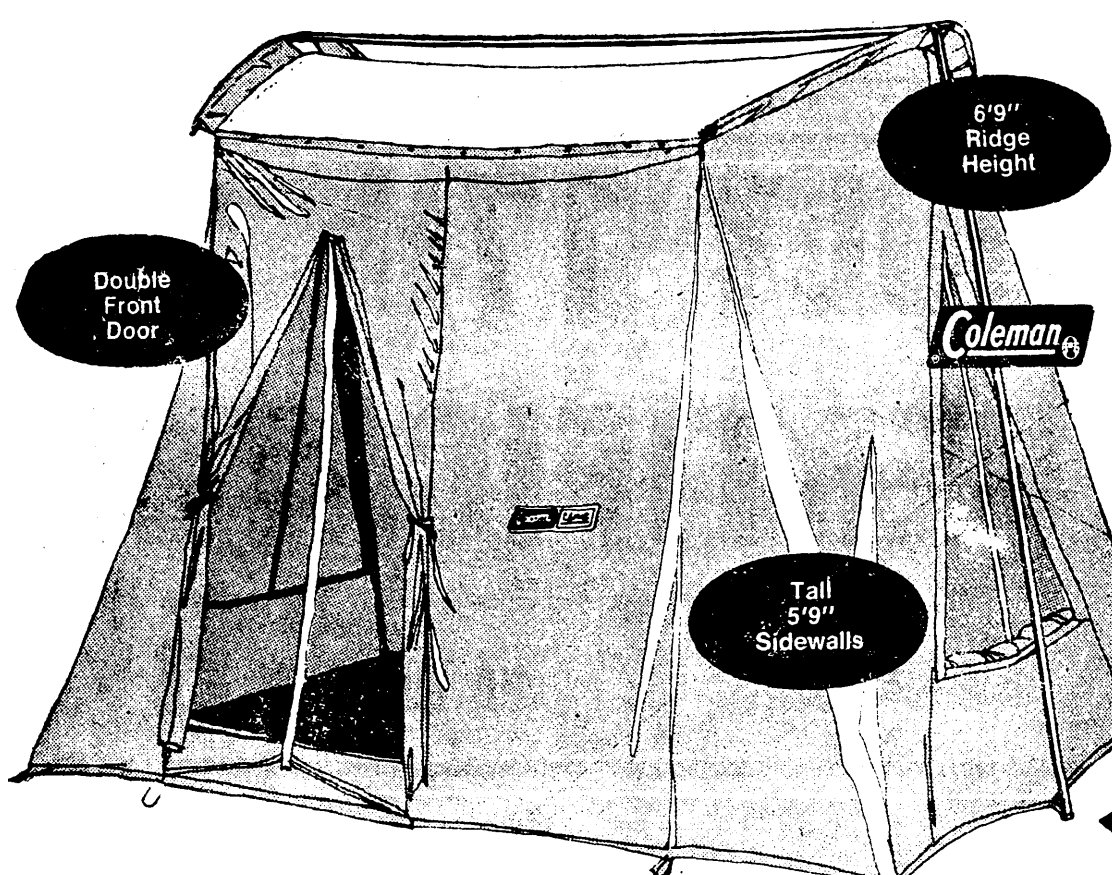

I'm saving all my mid-dresses.

Dalton

Ryan Just A Point Away From Koufax

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — "Nolan Ryan needs only consistency to walk through the record books," declared California Angels General Manager Harry Dalton after his pitcher narrowly missed two no-hitters in a row.

He also could use a little better hitting behind him and a little better luck.

Still Ryan feels he has a chance to hurl a third no-hitter during the 1973 season, a feat never accomplished in major league baseball.

The 26-year-old right-hander from Alvin, Tex., will be on the American League All-Star squad despite only an 11-12 record. But take a second look at that record and you'll find his teammates produced an average of just 1½ runs in each of the dozen losses.

After pitching a no-hit, no-run game against Detroit last Sunday, Ryan faced the Baltimore Orioles Thursday night at Anaheim Stadium.

The crowd of 20,823 gave three standing ovations to the lanky right-hander who lost his bid for a no-hitter when Mark Belanger, only a .214 batter, punched a bloop single in the eighth inning. Baltimore won 3-1.

"Nolan is just a point away from Sandy Koufax," said Dalton who traded infield star Jim Fregosi to the New York Mets for the pitcher and two other players on Dec. 10, 1971.

He led the majors in strikeouts last year—329—and probably will do it again. He struck out 13 Orioles to boost his season total to 233, leading both major leagues.

"My stuff wasn't as good as in Detroit, but I had good stuff," he said. "I went into the game to give it my best shot. What the heck, it's not too often you get a chance like that."

The only consecutive no-hitters in major league history were pitched by Cincinnati's Johnny Vander Meer in 1938 against Boston and Brooklyn. And only five have ever pitched two no-hitters in a single season.

Yanks Rout Sox And Wood Twice

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Yankees routed Wilbur Wood and the Chicago White Sox twice Friday night, scoring eight runs in the first inning of the opener en route to a 12-2 romp and then riding Roy White's fifth-inning grand slam to a 7-0 victory in the second game of the two-night doubleheader.

The nightcap was halted by rain with the Yankees at bat in the sixth inning.

Wood, who faced only six batters in the first game, was starting both ends of a doubleheader for the first time this year. However, on May 28 he went five innings in completing a suspended game against Cleveland and then hurled a four-hit shutout in the regular game.

Wood, who had beaten the Yankees eight straight times, all complete games, struck out leadoff man Horace Clarke in the first inning of the opener, but Ed Herrmann's passed ball allowed him to reach first. After Clarke stole second and Matty Alou walked, White delivered a two-run double.

Bobby Murcer added an RBI single, Thurman Munson doubled and Graig Nettles' two-run single chased Wood. Eddie Fisher gave up a single to Felipe Alou and a two-run double to Celerino Sanchez before getting the first out. Matty Alou drove in the final run of the Yankees' biggest inning of the baseball season with a single.

The Yanks completed their 20-hit assault against Rich Gossage and Jim Geddes with every batter in the lineup collecting at least one hit.

George Medich, 7-5, got the victory, with help from Lindy McDaniel in the sixth. Bill Melton hit a solo homer for Chicago, his 14th.

Wood, 18-14, retired the Yankees.

Astro Homers Drop Mets, 6-2

HOUSTON (AP) — Doug Rader pounded a pair of home runs and Cesar Cedeno also hit one, powering the Houston Astros to a 6-2 victory over the New York Mets Friday night.

Rader hit his 14th home run of the baseball season off Jon Matlack, 7-12, in the second inning, only to have the Mets tie the score on doubles by Felix Millan and John Milner in the third.

Matlack, who one-hit the Astros in their last meeting just 10 days earlier, was roughed up in the sixth when Houston rallied for three runs. Bob Watson doubled with two out and scored on Lee May's single before Rader slugged his second home run.

Cedeno slammed a two-run homer, his 16th, in the eighth. New York 001 000-2 11 1 Houston 010 003 02x-6 7 0

Mays Picked To Play In His 24th All-Star Game

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Willie Mays has been selected to play in his 24th All-Star baseball game, which will tie him with Hall of Famer Stan Musial for most All-Star appearances.

The 42-year-old New York Mets' center fielder was added to the National League team Friday when the squads were increased for 28 to 29 players. Pitcher Nolan Ryan of the California Angels was the extra American League selected.

The game will be played July 24 in Kansas City.

Manager Sparky Anderson of the Cincinnati Reds selected 12 other players Friday to complete the National League team. He named pitchers earlier, and the eight starting fielders were selected by the vote of fans.

The latest additions, besides Mays, were catcher Ted Simmons of St. Louis, first baseman-outfielder Willie Stargell of Pittsburgh, infielders Nate Colbert of San Diego, Dave Concepcion of Cincinnati, Joe Torre of St. Louis, Darrell Evans and Dave Johnson of Atlanta, and outfielders Bobby Bonds of San Francisco, Willie Davis and Manny Mota of Los Angeles and Ron Fairly of Montreal.

Aaron Unloads No. 699 In Loss

ATLANTA (AP) — Willie Montanez' two-run pop fly single highlighted a three-run second inning as the Philadelphia Phillies trimmed the Atlanta Braves 6-4 despite Hank Aaron's 699th lifetime home run.

Aaron's 26th homer of the baseball season was a three-run blast into the left field seats off Wayne Twitchell in the seventh inning.

Twitchell, 8-3, was working on a one-hit shutout until Marty Perez and Darrell Evans singled with one out in the seventh before Aaron unloaded on the first pitch with the blow that left him only 15 homers away from Babe Ruth's record 714.

One out later, Dave Johnson belted his 22nd homer, cutting the lead to 5-4 and chasing Twitchell.

The Phils got their final run in the ninth on Del Unser's bases-loaded sacrifice fly.

Slow Pitch Regional Postponed

Action in the ASA Slow Pitch Regional at Greenfield was suspended after almost three games were completed, due to the Friday night downpour.

In the games completed, Byers Brothers shutout the State Hospital 15-0, and Cole Chevrolet stopped H&H of Carrollton, 7-4.

With two outs in the bottom of the seventh inning Hanley Realty trailed Standard Oil of White Hall 15-11.

Weather permitting, the suspended game is scheduled to be completed this morning at 9:00, with the rest of the first rounders to follow in order.

The two games rained out on Friday's card; Ranson's vs Winchester Town Tavern and Carnation vs. Virginia Merchants will follow the finish of the Hanley-White Hall tilt.

Tournament officials said the remaining first-rounders will be played throughout the day, playing through the noon-hour, if necessary, to get them all in. Team captains are asked to call Greenfield, at number 368-9126, for information on when their team plays. A tournament official will be there at 8:00 a.m.

Williams Will Coach All-Stars

BOSTON (AP) — The American League said today that Manager Dick Williams of the Oakland Athletics will be sufficiently recovered from surgery to manage the American League team in the All-Star Game next Tuesday in Kansas City.

Williams underwent an emergency appendectomy Thursday night in Oakland.

A spokesman for the league said American League President Joe Cronin had spoken to Williams Friday and had assurances from him and from his doctors that Williams would be ready for the game.

NORMAN, Ill. (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals' football squad was reduced Friday with the departure of guard Larry McGhee, a free agent from Memphis State. The Cardinals said he left camp voluntarily and was placed on waivers.

Bonds' Bat Boosts Giants By Cubs, 5-4

CHICAGO (AP) — "It was half dark and I wanted to get a guy in there with a little mustard," said San Francisco Manager Charlie Fox Friday following a gasping 5-4 victory over the Chicago Cubs.

The "guy" was Elias Sosa, a native of the Dominican Republic who came on to save countryman Jaun Marichal. Marichal went into the rainy ninth with a 5-3 lead and with one out, Pat Borque hit a pinch homer.

Sosa came in and gave up singles to Rick Monday and Don Kessinger. He got dangerous Billy Williams on a called third strike and then fell behind Jimm Hickman on a 3-0 count with Jose Cardenal, the Cubs' hottest hitter, on deck.

"I figure I don't worry about Hickman, I walk him because I know I can get Cardenal out," said Sosa who proceeded to fan Cardenal to end the game and post his ninth save of the season.

Bobby Bonds hammered a pair of doubles and scored twice on singles by Garry Maddox and Dave Rader hit his seventh homer to help Marichal boost his record to 8-5.

Bonds opened the game with a double, triggering a three-run first inning that saw Maddox and Gary Matthews both drive in runs and another score on an error.

Bonds doubled with one out in the fifth and again scored on a single by Maddox off Cub starter Rick Reuschel, 10-7.

Marichal, after working out of a first-inning jam in which Chicago scored one run, held the Cubs scoreless until Billy Williams hit a two-run homer, his 12th of the baseball season, in the eighth inning.

With one out in the Chicago first, Don Kessinger singled and stole second. Jim Hickman walked and Jose Cardenal singled Kessinger home before Marichal retired Carmen Fanzone on a groundout to end the inning.

Following Williams' homer the Cubs put two more runners on base with just one out, but Marichal struck out Fanzone and got Paul Popovich on a grounder.

The victory was Marichal's eighth in 13 decisions this year and the 235th of his major league career, tops among active pitchers and one more than Bob Gibson of the St. Louis Cardinals. The triumph also boosted his lifetime record against the Cubs to 23-8.

Dave Rader's seventh homer of the year, a solo blast in the eighth inning off Cub reliever Jack Aker, accounted for the final San Francisco run. Pinch-hitter Pat Bourque's seventh home run in the last of the ninth knocked out Marichal and brought on Elias Sosa, who got the last two outs while giving up singles to Rick Monday and Kessinger and loading the bases with a walk to Hickman.

A couple of fielding lapses proved costly for the Cubs in the first inning. After Bonds doubled, Tito Fuentes grounded to Kessinger at short. Kessi-nger tried to get Bonds at third and failed. Maddox then singled and Willie McCovey walked to fill the bases.

Goodson then hit a smash to Fanzone but the Cub third baseman muffed it and Fuentes scored. The third run scored when Matthews forced Goodson at second. Chris Speier then hit into a double play to end the inning.

After Cardenal singled home a run in the first, Marichal retired 10 in a row before Paul Popovich singled to open the fifth. But Marichal got the next three batters. Hickman singled with two out in the sixth and Fanzone reached second in the seventh on a throwing error by Speier but Marichal again retired the side.

Rader's homer in the eighth made it 5-1, but Billy Williams hit his two-run homer in the bottom of the inning.

Rick Monday and Kessinger both singled after Sosa relieved Marichal but Sosa got Williams on a called third strike. Hickman walked to fill the bases but Cardenal struck out to end the game as Sosa posted his ninth save of the season.

No-Hitter, Top Pitching Thrill

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sport Editor
NEW YORK (UPI) — Nolan Ryan isn't the least bit worried. He wasn't concerned about being left off the American League All-Star team in the first place, and now that oversight becomes purely academic because he has been added to the squad as the 29th member.

Nor is he worried about not getting any immediate reward for his two no-hitters. He'll certainly profit from them eventually.

Harry Dalton, the man who runs the shop for the California Angels, assured Ryan he'd take care of him when the season was over for that first no-hitter of his against Kansas City two months ago, so he's certainly not going to forget about this last one against Detroit.

Nobody will. Nobody who follows baseball, anyway.

When it comes down to instant, and sometimes even perpetual recognition, nothing beats pitching a no-hitter, or "no-no" as some pitchers refer to it.

He Remembers It Too
"I was with nine different ball clubs and won more than 200 games," the late Bobo Newsom used to say, "and some guy'll come up to me and say, 'Hey, I remember you, you pitched a no-hitter once.' Yeah, I remember it, too. Got beat in 10 innings by Boston."

One hundred seventy-four no-hitters have been pitched since the National and American Leagues were established and that includes the three turned in this season, Ryan's two and the one KC's Steve Busby hurled against Detroit back in April.

"Pitching a no-hitter doesn't automatically make the season for you," says Busby, the Royals' poised, highly intelligent 22-year-old righthander struggling along with a 7-10 figure now.

"I remember Bo Belinsky's no-hitter and some of the others who pitched no-hitters. That's all many of them ever did. It shows you how much luck is involved. I think the majority of no-hitters are the result of luck. Yes, I consider mine one of them."

It was Lefty Gomez who popularized the saying, "I'd rather be lucky than good," and if you study the list of those who have pitched no-hitters you'll spot both types.

Some Of The Ones
You'll find Hall of Famers Cy Young, Walter Johnson, Bob Feller, Carl Hubbell, Warren Spahn and Sandy Koufax and you'll also find Bill McCahan, Dave Morehead, Don Nottebart, Jack Kralick and George Culver.

Perhaps the luckiest of all though was Alva "Bobo" Holloman, a husky right-handed, nothing-baller from Thomaston, Ga., who should be pushing about 50 now.

Bobo wasn't the greatest pitcher in the world by any means, but what a talker! He was so good, he could talk the paint off a picture frame, and he came close to talking the ears off both Bill Veeck and Marty Marion back in 1953.

Veeck was running the St. Louis Browns then and Marion was managing them. Holloman had been purchased from Syracuse for $10,000 down and if the Browns kept him after June 15 they'd have to shell out $25,000 more.

Marion had made up his mind to send him back to the minors by May, and that's when Holloman really turned on the talk pleading for at least one chance to start a ball game.

"Okay," Marion finally agreed. "Anything to give my ears a rest."

Holloman Starts Game
Holloman started a game against the Philadelphia A's. Everyone expected him to get bombed and he did, all right. You never saw so many line drives in your life, except the Browns performed like acrobats in the field that night.

They made one high-wire grab after another, catches which astounded even them, and when the game was all over Holloman had a no-hitter in his first major league start.

"I'll never forget that ball game if I live to be 90," says Vic Wertz, who played first base for the Browns that night, barely getting in front of a smoking ground ball in time for the final out.

Bobo Holloman will never forget that game either.

It was the only complete one he pitched all season, and he was sent back to the minors before the year was out.

"I remember you," said a guy who recognized him some years later. "You're the fella who pitched that no-hitter."

"Yeah, that's me," confessed Bobo. "I didn't really have my good stuff that night, either."

Homers, Curtis Propel Boston Past Twins, 5-0

BOSTON (AP) — Home runs in the first two innings by Tommie Harper and Carlton Fisk backed the five-hit pitching of John Curtis in leading the Boston Red Sox to a 5-0 victory over the Minnesota Twins Friday night.

Harper's home run off Bert Blyleven, 12-9, was his eighth of the season and gave the Red Sox a 1-0 lead in the first inning. Fisk's 18th of the baseball season hit the light standard in left field one inning later.

The Red Sox added a single run in the fifth when Harper singled to right, driving in Mario Guerrero, who had opened the inning with a double.

Two more runs in the sixth, on RBI singles by Fisk and Harper, made it 5-0.

Not On Team

Cardenal, Melton Upset At Selections

CHICAGO (AP) — Outfielder Jose Cardenal, the little guy swinging the biggest bat for the Chicago Cubs, wonders just what it takes to earn an appearance in baseball's All-Star Game.

So does Bill Melton of the Chicago White Sox, the American League's top-hitting third baseman at .300.

"This is the best year I've ever had and if I was going to be in an All-Star Game this would be the year," said Cardenal, nine-season big league veteran hitting .323 and also leading the Cubs in RBIs with 52.

Melton was runnerup to Baltimore's .233-hitting Brooks Robinson in the All-Star balloting by fans. But Oakland's Sal Bando and Cleveland's Buddy Bell will be the backup AL third sackers in next Tuesday night's All-Star Game in Kansas City.

"I guess I just haven't got the publicity other guys have gotten," said Melton, who made the 1971 All-Star game but did not play. Melton, who leads the White Sox in RBIs with 59, missed most of 1972 because of a back ailment.

At suggestion All-Star manager Dick Williams of Oakland didn't pick him because Melton had been injured, Melton retorted: "If that's the case, he still could have asked me. That's what they do in cases like that and let a player take himself out of it."

Cardenal, who Thursday single-handedly ended a six-game Cub losing streak with a three-run double and his ninth homer, commented: "I think I deserve to go to the All-Star game. I sure would like to go."

"I think we should go back to having the players pick the All-Star team. Right now, the people go for the superstars, no matter who is doing what right now. The players know better which guys are playing well."

"Maybe the commissioner should let the fans select four or five big guys for each squad and then let the players vote on the rest."

Cardenal appears to have found a home with the Cubs, who acquired him after the 1971 season from the Milwaukee Brewers.

Although the fleet 150-pound Cuban native batted .293 for the St. Louis Cardinals in 1970, he really caught fire for the Cubs last season.

Cardenal in 1972 belted a career high of 17 homers, had 70 RBIs and stole 25 bases, while batting .291.

He still wears a tattered red T-shirt he first donned for good luck in 1968 with the Cleveland Indians.

"But it isn't lucky enough so I can wear it in Kansas City Tuesday night," grinned Jose.

Miller Takes Lead In Women's Golf

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Sharon Miller fired a three-under-par 69 Friday in the U.S. Women's Open Golf Championship as other scores soared in the second round. It gave her the lead at the halfway point with a 142 for 36 holes.

Only Jan Ferraris of San Francisco, a pro since 1966 and winner of two Ladies Professional Golf Association events, was able to join Miss Miller with a sub-par round. She shot a 71 for a 149 on the 6,120-yard Country Club of Rochester course.

Kathy Hite of North Myrtle Beach, S.C., Sandra Palmer of Fort Worth, Tex., Judy Rankin of Midland, Tex., and amateur Anne Quast Sander of Seattle, Wash., matched par at 72.

Cynthia Hill, an amateur from Colorado Springs, Colo., and the leader after the first round on the 72-hole tournament with a four-under 68, ballooned to a 79 for a 147.

Mrs. Ted Boddie of Shreveport, La., posted an 81 after Thursday's 70 had given her the runnerup position.

Laura Baugh, the 18-year-old rookie sensation from Long Beach, Calif., playing in her fourth pro event, shot from a 73 to 79 for 152.

The tipoff:

A West Coast professional basketball player in the super star class should know he has been under surveillance for drug involvement. A narcotics detective in the city where plays and lives has admitted police have been keeping tabs on him.

Q — I got a tough one for you. A Chinese home run, a Texas Leaguer and a Baltimore chop — I know the meaning of these hits, but can you tell me their origin? — Harry Campano, Hamden, Conn.

A — What's so tough? After verifying with Seymour Siwoff, Mr. Sports Trivia, these are the answers: Chinese homers originated in the old Polo grounds, where the outfield walls slanted out abruptly from the very short foul lines (slanted, got it?); the Texas Leaguers derived from the hot dry summer air where baseballs didn't carry and apparently produced a lot of bloopers over the infield; the Baltimore choppers dated back to the John McGraw era when he managed the old Orioles and ordered his players to hit down on the ball, producing a lot of high infield bouncers.

Q — Why should there be so much racial tension produced by Henry Aaron's almost sure bet to break Babe Ruth's career record of 714 home runs? Seems to me I've heard insinuations a long time ago that Ruth was no white supremacist. — H. R. New Brunswick, N. J.

A — You're getting into a very sensitive area. It's true that during his career, the Babe, who came from a mottled home background and was ultimately raised in an orphanage, was the target of sly racist jibes. His teammates on the Yankees, for instance, called him "Jidge" and one of them, a famous pitcher, even today confesses it was a thinly veiled euphemism for "jig." Anyhow, hitting home runs in a baseball stadium is no black or white province.

Q — Your recent answer on songs written about baseball players left out one about the late Jackie Robinson. The reason I know is that I had the record for years. It just broke recently. Now I have a question for you. How many big league players ever threw left-handed and batted righthanded? But you can't name two. — John Anderjack, Pittsburgh, Pa.

A — Yes, I can, too. Right now there's Cleon Jones, the outfielder of the Mets. Little more than a decade ago there was a first baseman named R. C. Stevens, who played with the Pirates and Senators and outfielder Carl Warwick who played with a handful of teams. There've also been a bunch of pitchers over the years who've thrown southpaw and batted from the right side — starting with old-time hero Nap Rucker and coming down to Ken Holtzman of the World Champion A's (if he ever gets to bat again). An interesting note is that outfielder Willie Davis of the Dodgers, a portholder, batted righthanded when he was discovered as a sandlotter but was switched to the left side before he turned pro.

Q — Would you explain for me why last season was the year of the running back in professional football? Did moving the hash marks in three yards mean all that much? — Joe Salmeri, Merced, Calif.

A — Moving the hash marks affected pass defense because it virtually eliminated the short side of the field and made zone coverage more difficult. It affected running by forcing outside linebackers to play wider. However, I feel the rule change was less important than the cyclical factor. The NFL has suddenly sprung a new set of torrid running backs such as Franco Harris, John Riggins and John Brockington. Without super studs, many teams still have trouble moving overland. The San Francisco 49ers are an example. Rookie Harris outgained both their starters combined.

Q — Could you tell me the amount of Babe Ruth's total bases on balls, World Series and regular season, and the same combined total issued to Hank Aaron? — Elmer Swonger, Denver, Colo.

A — Babe Ruth holds the all-time major league record of 2,056 bases on balls, plus 33 in World Series competition, for a grand total of 2,089. That covers 22 seasons. Going into his 20th major league campaign this year, Hank Aaron had been

Little Closes Hot, Takes St. Louis Lead

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Courageous Gene Littler, still on the comeback from cancer, birdied six of his last seven holes for a 66 and a one-stroke lead Friday after the second round of $210,000 St. Louis Children's Hospital Golf Classic.

The wiry 42-year-old veteran had a two-round total of 12, eight under par in the muggy heat that hung over the 6,544-yard Norwood Hills Country Club course.

Lurking just over his shoulder at 133 was the threatening trio of Lee Trevino, veteran Bob Goalby and John Schroeder.

Trevino, the defending champion in this event, that offers $42,000 to the winner, blazed in with a six-under-par 64. Goalby who shared the first-round lead with Rik Massengale, slipped to a 68 and Schroeder fashioned a 67.

Massengale and Jim Ferriell followed at 14 as the field continued generally low scoring. Ferriell had a 67 and Massengale a 69.

Tom Shaw, with a sparkling seven-under-par 63, headed a large group at 16 while South African Gary Player and lead-

Rangers Trip Detroit 8-6 On Early Scores

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — The Texas Rangers lashed six consecutive hits in a six-run first inning, including a two-run double by Jim Mason and a two-run single by Ken Suarez, then held off a late surge to defeat the Detroit Tigers 8-6 Friday night.

After one out, Larry Bittner started the Ranger explosion with a walk. First baseman Jim Spencer celebrated his nomination to the American League All-Star team with a single. Then Alex Johnson, Jim Fregosi and Rich Billings followed with singles. Mason cracked a double and Suarez singled before Woody Fryman could put out the fire.

Jim Perry, 9-10 for the baseball season, was the victim of the Ranger outburst—the most runs scored in one inning against Detroit this season.

The Rangers added single runs in the fourth and seventh, with Spencer driving in one and Fregosi, with his third hit of the game, driving in the other.

Jack Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer, along with British and American national champions Tom Weiskopf and Johnny Miller are not competing.

Littler, a former U.S. open champion, has won $37,000, but hasn't finished higher than fourth this season in his comeback following surgery for cancer last year.

Littler, who scored the last of his 24 tour victories in 1971, started slowly. He double-bogeyed the seventh hole from a bunker and was two-over-par for the day after 11 holes.

Then he started an almost incredible display that included five birdies in a row, matching the best on the tour this year.

The soft-spoken Littler chipped to six feet on No. 12, holed it from 12 feet on the next hole and chipped to less than six feet on the next.

He ran in a 40-foot putt for his fourth consecutive birdie, then canned an 19-footer on the next hole.

His string came to an end with a par on the 17th, but he grabbed the lead alone with a 10-foot birdie putt on the long finishing hole.

Petty Captures Pole At Atlanta

HAMPTON, Ga. (AP) — Joe Frasson of Golden Valley, Minn., steered his Dodge around Atlanta International Raceway at 152.692 miles per hour Friday to set the pace on the second day of qualifying for Sunday's Dixie 500 stock car race.

The colorful 37-year-old driver will line up in the 13th position for the race, set for a 1:30 p.m. EDT, starting time.

Richard Petty, only million-dollar winner on the Grand National circuit, captured the pole position in time trials Thursday at 157.16 m.p.h. in his Dodge.

"I scared the devil out of me doing it, though."

The second fastest qualifier in Friday's session was Benny Parsons of Ellerbe, N.C., point leader in the Winston Cup series this year. Parsons, driving a Chevrolet, was clocked at 152.005 m.p.h.

Aaron To Marry In November To TV Personality

ATLANTA (AP) — Atlanta Braves' star Henry Aaron plans to marry a local television personality probably in November, according to published reports.

The Atlanta Constitution said in Friday's editions that Aaron is engaged to Mrs. Billy Williams, a widow and a featured interviewer on WSB-TV.

Aaron has been divorced from his first wife for more than a year.

The Braves slugger currently is closing in on Babe Ruth's career home run record of 714. Aaron has belted 699 homers thus far.

Harness Racing Starts Saturday

Weather permitting, an outstanding two-day harness racing program is on tap at the Morgan County Fair.

The schedule calls for four stakes races Saturday and Sunday and two more races for non-winners of $2,500. If weather halts Saturday's program, the stakes races will take precedent for Sunday's schedule.

Saturday's program is scheduled to begin at 2:30. The two-year-old trot, a Western Illinois Racing Association stakes race, has two divisions and a total of 17 head. The two-year-old trot, also a stakes test, has one division of nine and the pace for nine-winners of $2,500 has six or seven head entered, for a total of eight heats on tap.

Sunday's card has 18 head in two divisions of the two-year-old trot, one division in the three-year-old trot and one division in the trot for non-winners of $2,500.

"The closeness of the fairs here, at Carlinville and starting next Tuesday at Carrollton probably held

Not On Team

Cardenal, Melton Upset At Selections

CHICAGO (AP) — Outfielder Jose Cardenal, the little guy swinging the biggest bat for the Chicago Cubs, wonders just what it takes to earn an appearance in baseball's All-Star Game.

So does Bill Melton of the Chicago White Sox, the American League's top-hitting third baseman at .300.

"This is the best year I've ever had and if I was going to be in an All-Star Game this would be the year," said Cardenal, nine-season big league veteran hitting .323 and also leading the Cubs in RBIs with 52.

Melton was runnerup to Baltimore's .233-hitting Brooks Robinson in the All-Star balloting by fans. But Oakland's Sal Bando and Cleveland's Buddy Bell will be the backup AL third sackers in next Tuesday night's All-Star Game in Kansas City.

"I guess I just haven't got the publicity other guys have gotten," said Melton, who made the 1971 All-Star game but did not play. Melton, who leads the White Sox in RBIs with 58, missed most of 1972 because of a back ailment.

At suggestion All-Star manager Dick Williams of Oakland didn't pick him because Melton had been injured, Melton retorted: "If that's the case, he still could have asked me. That's what they do in cases like that and let a player take himself out of it."

Cardenal, who Thursday single-handedly ended a six-game losing streak with a three-run double and his ninth homer, commented: "I think I deserve to go to the All-Star game. I sure would like to go."

"I think we should go back to having the players pick the All-Star team. Right now, the people go for the superstars, no matter who is doing what right now. The players know better which guys are playing well."

"Maybe the commissioner should let the fans select four or five big guys for each squad and then let the players vote on the rest."

Cardenal appears to have found a home with the Cubs, who acquired him after the 1971 season from the Milwaukee Brewers.

Although the fleet 150-pound Cuban native batted .293 for the St. Louis Cardinals in 1970, he really caught fire for the Cubs last season.

Cardenal in 1972 belted a career high of 17 homers, had 70 RBIs and stole 25 bases, while batting .291.

He still wears a tattered red T-shirt he first donned for good luck in 1968 with the Cleveland Indians.

"But it isn't lucky enough so I can wear it in Kansas City Tuesday night," grinned Jose.

PACERS SIGN TOP PICKS

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The champion Indiana Pacers of the American Basketball Association announced the signing Friday of four of their 1973 college draft choices.

John Ritter of Indiana University, Joe Wallace of Denver University, Jim Andrews of the University of Kentucky and Mike Edwards of the University of Tennessee are scheduled to report to rookie camp Sept. 5.

Harness Racing Starts Saturday

Weather permitting, an outstanding two-day harness racing program is on tap at the Morgan County Fair.

The schedule calls for four stakes races Saturday and Sunday and two more races for non-winners of $2,500.

If weather halts Saturday's program, the stakes races will take precedent for Sunday's schedule.

Saturday's program is scheduled to begin at 2:30. The two-year-old trot, a Western Illinois Racing Association stakes race, has two divisions and a total of 17 head. The two-year-old trot, also a stakes test, has one division of nine and the pace for nine-winners of $2,500 has six or seven head entered, for a total of eight heats on tap.

Sunday's card has 18 head in two divisions of the two-year-old trot, one division in the three-year-old trot and one division in the trot for non-winners of $2,500.

"The closeness of the fairs here, at Carlinville and starting next Tuesday at Carrollton probably held down the number of entries here," says Superintendent of Speed 1. H. Thompson of Jacksonville.

"There are a lot of horses on the circuit this year, several of the best is Becky Magoo, owned by Clyde Mear of Waverly, a two-year-old filly trotter unbeaten so far. Weather permitting, we will have some good races with good competition."

Says Thomas Won't Pressure Brown

CARLISLE, Pa. (AP) — The Washington Redskins' roster of controversial players is growing, but Coach George Allen denied Friday that running back Duane Thomas was acquired to retaliate against Larry Brown, who has refused to report to training camp.

Despite Thomas' suspensions and other disputes with three clubs, Allen traded his first-round choice in 1975 and his second pick in 1976 to San Diego for the running back.

Thomas, who sat out the 1972 season in a contract dispute, had not signed a 1973 pact with the Chargers. He was suspended for arriving at camp 24 hours late but was reinstated.

Allen said he had been interested in Thomas, rookie-of-the-year for Dallas in 1970, for nearly a year and started serious negotiations with San Diego last winter because the Redskins lacked experienced depth at running back.

The Washington coach said he expected Thomas to report to camp here and quoted Abner Haynes, Thomas' agent, as saying the trade pleased Thomas.

Brown, pro football's most valuable player in 1972, has refused to report to camp until the Redskins discuss his future security. He wants a multiyear contract beginning in 1974, after his current pact expires.

The Redskins have refused to meet with Brown, saying he is violating his contract by not showing up at camp.

"We felt that the way we were using Larry, we needed more depth," said Allen. "We had to spell him near the end of the year. Larry was taking a pounding."

Allen has a reputation of being able to handle the so-called "problem ball players" who cause other teams difficulties, especially in contract negotiations. He reportedly is willing to give the players more money than other coaches.

of athletic success. Shoot below par, you are a good and worthy human being. Mess up on the putting green and you're a worm.

"It was syndrome of you seeing yourself and others seeing you for what you did instead of for what you are," said Beard.

"That hurts, but it's true. When I began to play lousy the phone stopped ringing as much as it used to. But there were a few friends who stayed with me, who asked my wife and me to dinner not because I was Frank Beard the Golfer, but because we were the Beards and they enjoyed our company."

"Until I came to the realization — and it was a gradual thing — that golf is not the most important thing in my life, that there are other things to live for, until then I thought I was really on the brink of death — if I hadn't already died and just nobody had informed me."

Beard says he has gone through what for him are drastic changes. On the outside, his brown but graying hair is longer, his pants are slightly belted, his shirts are blue, red, green and not always white as they once were. "I may still be drab to most people, but to me this is practically going to hell," he said.

And inside, the changes are manifold. For one, he says, "I'm not chasing the buck the way I used to. Once, if I went home supposedly to relax, I'd be reading the papers and saying, 'There's $150,000 in prize money and I'm not going to get any of it.' And when I'd read who won, I'd say, 'I could have beaten his butt,' I might as well have been at the tournament. Now, I still follow the tournament when I'm home but I don't agonize as much. I spend that time enjoying my family."

He has recently gone on another of his many diets. "I figured if I can't control myself at the table how could I expect to control myself on the golf course," he said. "The 6-foot Beard went from 265 pounds to 180. The intelligent, solidly good-looking face with wire-rimmed glasses is not as round as previously."

"The confidence and stroke are just about back completely," said Beard. He said this shortly after he had finished ninth at the Firestone. "It

EVERGLADES CAMP-OUT

They were really going to school for 16 hours a day but it didn't hurt. Being pioneers in the wilderness was a far more thrilling adventure than learning about it in class for these 31 fifth graders from Bright Elementary School, Hialeah, Fla., who camped out for a week in Everglades National Park.

They were the first to try a new program, sponsored jointly by the Dade County school system and Everglades National Park, which aims to teach children about the 1-million-acre wilderness through "total immersion" in it. That included one unplanned immersion when someone fell out of a canoe starting out on a trip along the Bear Lake Trail—soon forgotten in the excitement of gliding along the green forested waterways, catching sight of a rare Florida crocodile, blue herons and indigo snakes.

The 10-year-olds lived in a camp of eight tents pitched by the shore of Florida Bay, near Flamingo, and were under the tutelage of some of their own teachers and a group of Park Rangers.

Business — Market Wrapup

Business Mirror

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — While professing ability to control the future of the vast American economy from a central headquarters in Washington, the administration's rhetoric seems to exonerate it from a job poorly done in the past.

Who is going to return equilibrium to the economy? The administration, with the help and mandatory cooperation of consumers, workers, executives, farmers. It asks that all be patient as they are led out of the wilderness.

But who got the economy lost in the wilds? A series of impersonal forces, "an extraordinary combination of circumstances," according to President Nixon. The inference is that they were beyond control.

Now the question is: Are they or aren't they controllable? In viewing the record you may easily conclude that the forces Washington seeks to take are, by its own explanation, really beyond control.

This is how the President described the events leading to the almost incredible tangle of red tape, loose regulatory threads and elastic enforcement:

"We have had in 1973 an extraordinary combination of circumstances making for rapid inflation. There was a decline of domestic food supplies. The domestic economy boomed at an exceptional pace, generating powerful demand for goods and services."

"The boom in other countries and the devaluation of the dollar, while desirable from most points of view, raised the prices of the things we export or import."

There is no suggestion of economic mismanagement. The blame is placed on forces which, presumably, the White House felt it could not challenge. It is these or similar forces it now asserts it is able to face down.

No wonder then that Phase 4 was greeted with skepticism and cynicism, attitudes reinforced by analyzing the President's statement.

"There was a decline of domestic food supplies," he explained, leaving it to the reader to deduce the reason why.

That reason, you will recall, was not that farmers didn't produce enough but because the food was shipped abroad in keeping with the White House policy of expanding trade and building international friendships.

While conceding in some ways that its record hasn't been good, the administration continues to describe recent economic history in terms that suggest events are beyond its control, or at least not its responsibility.

It is for that reason among others that many people of all economic levels and occupations lack the patience and the faith in government that the administration seeks. Can they control the economy? Or can't they?

South Is Home Of New Monarch Of Textile World

By LeROY POPE
UPI Business Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — Once upon a time, the South was the land of cotton, and cotton was king of the world's fabrics. King Cotton has been dethroned but the South is the home of the new monarch of the textile world, Emperor Polyester.

Polyester, a synthetic resin that can be made into yarns or molding compounds to encase fiberglass strands, last year surpassed nylon as the world's most widely used synthetic fiber. It passed nylon in the United States two years ago.

Derived from coal tar by way of terephthalic acid and petroleum (ethylene glycol, also used as an anti-freeze), more polyester is made in the South than anywhere else. Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. alone has six plants in the South making polyester resins, yarns and tire ingredients. Other tire companies and many chemical and basic textile producers also make polyester products in Dixie.

Hold Dominant Position
In the fabric world, mixtures of polyester and cotton or wool, or all-polyester fabrics such as Dacron, now hold a dominant position even though continuous filament polyester yarns appeared on the market only in 1962.

Before then, polyester was available only in staple (chopped fiber). Even then it made inroads against nylon, rayon and other synthetics for mixing with cotton or wool in knitting yarns and fabrics for women's dresses, men's shorts, underwear, hosiery, sweaters, carpeting, upholstery and pile fabrics.

Polyester also has captured the market for boat sails, except for spinnakers, still made of the lighter nylon.

Polyester's more recent triumphs have been in industry. Yachts, trawlers and small boats, some automobile bodies, many tubs and shower enclosures and many other fixtures and furnishings are made of polyester resin reinforced with glass fibers.

Brush bristles, paper machine screen belts, magnetic tape, film or prepackaged food bakes and boil bags, V-belts and hundreds of other products are made of polyester.

CHARGED WITH EXTORTION FROM UNITED AIR LINES

CHICAGO (AP) — FBI agents have arrested a Chicago man and charged him with attempting to extort $100,000 from United Air Lines.

Garry N. Williams, 47, was arrested Thursday night in a department store parking lot when he attempted to enter a United vehicle that had been parked there at the instruction of an anonymous caller earlier in the day, said Richard G. Held, special agent in charge of the Chicago FBI office.

Held said Williams allegedly threatened to kill three stewardesses employed by the airline.

A company spokesman said no stewardesses were held hostage and, as far as the company knows, no specific girls were named as potential victims in the extortion plot.

A series of eight calls was received by the airline from 2:30 p.m. to 10:15 when the man was arrested, the spokesman said.

Held said Williams, who is divorced is a field engineer at Environmental, Inc., in northwest suburban Skokie.

New York Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP) — Despite uncertainties about the long range impact of Phase 4, bargain-hunting investors carried the day on Wall Street Friday. They lifted prices in moderately active trading.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials closed up 4.22 at 910.90. This was the fifth day in a row the Dow had finished higher, the index having read 885.99 last Friday. It was coupled with a particularly broad advance of 2 1/2 to 1 over decliners. Several brokers termed the week the best this year.

Volume on the Big Board stood at 16.3 million shares, less than the previous session but higher than Monday. Advancing issues led falling stocks, 833 to 541, among 1791 traded.

Economic news Friday included a sharply lower dollar in Europe, a forecast by the Nixon administration that the U.S. trade deficit would narrow, and a rise in the June consumer price index, computed prior to the price freeze announced June 12.

These items did not seem to bother the market, however, brokers said. Investors were more concerned with higher second-quarter earnings and the possibility of a credit crunch which would crimp business expansion during the second half and into 1974.

Big Board volume leader was Continental Investment, up 1/2 to 4 1/2 on block trading.

Steels were off generally, with autos higher.

On the Amex, McCulloch Oil led the most active issues, plus 1/4 to 7/8.

The New York Stock Exchange index of all its listed common stocks ended the day up 0.34 at 57.09, in comparison with the previous week's 55.12. The Amex price-change index, meanwhile, rose 12 to 23.18. It was 22.63 a week earlier.

Gene Rayburn
Jet-Propelled
Television Star

Gene Rayburn, host of "Match Game '73," new game show on the CBS network, has solved one of life's age-old riddles—how to be in two different places at the same time.

Thanks to the miracles of electronics and jet travel, Rayburn can supervise the construction of the new family home on Cape Cod while watching himself perform on the television screen in Hollywood.

The veteran game-show host commutes weekly from his Massachusetts residence to CBS Television City in Hollywood, where "Match Game '73" sessions are taped for broadcast Monday through Friday (2:30-3 p.m.) on the network.

Rayburn carries three careers in his briefcase as he hopscoches from coast to coast—scripts for the television show, plans for the Cape Cod construction and reports on the Massachusetts brick manufacturing business of which he is part owner.

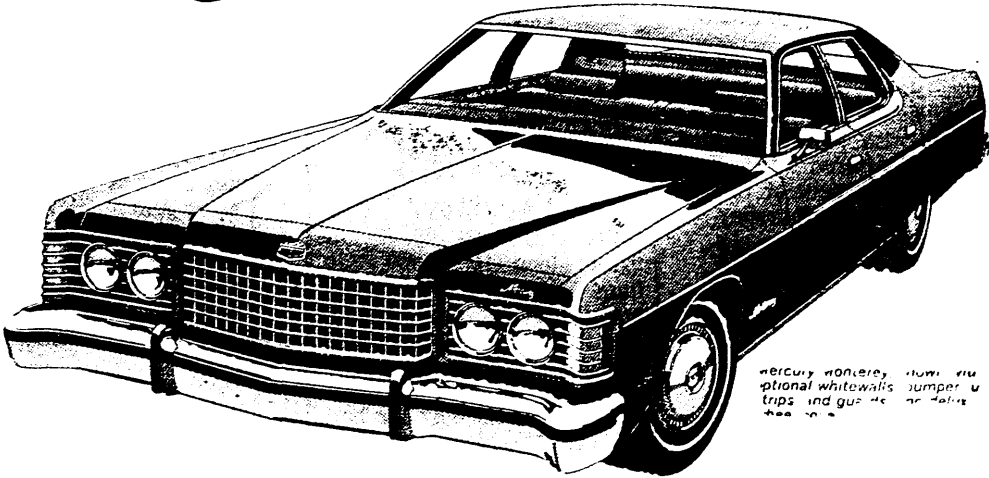

During the five-hour-plus air trips between East and West Coasts, Rayburn does his homework. He memorizes, he designs, he dictates.

Between flights he keeps fit—and avoids "commuter's spread"—by playing tennis and bike-riding. "In the air," he says, "no plane is fast enough for me. But on the ground, a bicycle is all the speed I need."
